Written by Ruth Candace Tachna about her father Max Tachna [Wed, 7 Mar 2001], "Tac did not found ACLU. He did found American Jewish Congress along with Rabbi Stephen Wise. I have pictures of a testimonial dinner for Tac that Congress gave when he was president of the Manhattan division. Wise is in that picture. He enjoyed good speakers and was an ardent fan of Jon Haynes Homes a famous minister and we have a pew in his church in NY. As I child I had to listen to speeches by Harry Emerson Fosdick a VERY rightg wing preaher because Dad appreciated his abilities as a speaker. He also admired Billy Graham and I can still hear him praising Graham's use of gesture. It wasn't the religion that mattered to him. Dad also was in love with good theatre and I remember him telling me about a director who tied his star actress's hands but at her climax scene she broke the bonds to raise her arms and he told her that was the way to use gesture. If we ever said "uh" he was on us, "Think first". Dad was a very good trial lawyer and a frustrated actor which all good trial lawyers have to be. When we were little and he read stories to us he didn't just read he acted them. Also he was very handsome and knew it. He once said, "I only need one or two women on the jury to win my case." But he also taught me that no case is won or lost in court, it's won or lost in your office and nothing takes the place of proper preperation. I remember that one of the clients beame furious with my father because of the grilling Dad put him through in the office but his comment afterward that there wasn't a single questiion put to him during the trial that he didnt have the winning answer."

Written by Leslie Ann (nee Bauman) Levy about her grandfather Max Tachna [Wed, 7 Mar 2001], "Robert, I'm forwarding this to Mom who can answer much better than I. However, here is some partial information. He loved religion, almost any religion, provided speeches were involved. (That's also why he became a member of Alcoholics Anonymous! He didn't drink, but he liked listening to the people giving speeches about their lives.) I have no idea if he wanted exposure to diverse people. Mom thinks he was not involved in founding the ACLU; I think I remember his telling me otherwise. I think Mom can better describe what kind of law he practiced. However, I recall that he incorporated Longines in this country, as well as Gimbel's and possibly Saks 5th Avenue? Anyway, I think there was a second prominent department store. I would assume that he must have enjoyed litigation, given his love of speech-making. I was present at some of his speeches, and he certainly was a fine speaker. He had the audience in the palm of his hand. Mom just told me that he founded the Jewish War Veterans Society. I think I already told you that he founded American Jewish Congress. Frankly, he did so much that it's hard to keep track of everything. Again, Mom will recall more. Leslie"

Notes for Victor Abe Young:

From the early 1930's until his demise in 1956, violinist; composer; arranger; and bandleader Victor Young was an important part of the music scene. In the late 1920's, Young turned from a concert music career to popular music and composing. In the 1930's, his band was popular and very well recorded: In the Mid-1930's, Young moved to the West Coast where he composed music, and arranged, for Hollywood studios. In the 1940's, his band, still active, usually backed vocalists on their recordings. Victor's father, William Young, was a tenor with the Chicago Opera Co. After Victor's mother died, William Young abandoned his two children, and the two of them, Victor and his sister Helen, left Chicago and went to Poland to be raised by their elderly grandparents; they traveled from Chicago to Warsaw alone. (Victor was just 10 years old). William Young re-married and had another family. He died in 1932 from Cancer, and is buried in a Brooklyn, NY cemetery. Victor's grandfather, a tailor, had sufficient savings to start Victor at the Warsaw Conservatory, where Victor studied violin under Isador Lotto, receiving the 'Diploma of Merit.' After more study with private tutors, he debuted with the Warsaw Philharmonic, following which he toured Europe with different concert orchestras. His first public appearance with the Warsaw Philharmonic went so well that a wealthy music lover gave him a 1730 Guarnerius, the instrument which Victor Young continued to play as an adult in America. The man who presented him with the violin was a banker, Josef Goldfeder. Victor kept the violin on display on an entry hall table in his Beverly Hills home. The day after Victor Young died, the violin, which had been left to a very close relative, Henry Hill, a professional musician (violinist) mysteriously disappeared. (A close family friend had walked out of the house with it.) Victor and his sister Helen attended the Warsaw Conservatory of Music at the same time. Helen went on to become a fine pianist. She was his accompanist when he concertized all over Europe and the United States. Helen went on to marry violinist Henry Hill, whom she and Victor had met in Europe. In 1914, at the outbreak of WW1, he returned to Chicago where he had his American debut. There followed a succession of jobs, and during the early part of the 1920's, he toured as a concert violinist. He worked in Los Angeles as a concert-master in a motion picture theater orchestra. He then did the same in Chicago's Central Park Theater. But around this time, he had decided to leave the classics and make his career in popular song. Later in the 1920's, he worked with the Ted Fio Rito Orchestra as violinist and arranger. Still in Chicago, Young was the orchestra leader at the famed Chicago Theater and at the State and Lake Theater and also had the dance orchestra at the Edgewater Beach Hotel. His radio career also started in Chicago in the late 1920's, but in 1931 he moved to New York City where he continued working in the radio studios.

His songwriting career started in 1928 when he wrote: 1928 "Sweet Sue", lyric by Will Harris, 1929 "Can't You Understand?", lyric by Jack Osterman, During the 1930's, Young did a great deal of radio work, conducting for many stars including Smith Bellew, Al Jolson, and Don Ameche. In 1935, he returned to Los Angeles and formed his own orchestra; a successful venture. The orchestra was heard on radio stations, as well as at the famous Grauman's Chinese Theater. Young then became associated Paramount Pictures Studios, as chief composer and arranger. and began his major career in the motion picture industry.

His earliest, and most important, lyricist collaborator in Hollywood was Ned Washington, with whom he wrote such songs as: 1933 "Sweet Madness", from film 'Murder at the Vanities', a George White 'Vanities' film, 1933 "A Ghost of a Chance", 1933 "A Hundred Years From Today", from show "Blackbirds of 1933/34"

Other Victor Young songs with Washington lyrics are: "Can't We Talk It Over", "Stella By Starlight", "My Foolish Heart" 1935 With musical collaboration from Joe Young, for films: Straight is the Way' he wrote: "A Hundred Years From Today", lyric Ned Washington. From that humble start, Victor went on to score over 300 motion pictures, among which are: 1937 Wells Fargo Swing High, Swing Low, 1938 Breaking The Ice, 1939 Golden Boy, Man of Conquest, 1940 Arizona, 1941 I Wanted Wings, Hold Back the Dawn, 1942 Flying Tigers, Silver Queen, The Glass Key, 1943 For Whom The Bell Tolls, 1944 The Uninvited, 1949 Sampson and Delilah, 1950 Rio Grande, 1952 Scaramouche, The Greatest Show On Earth, 1953 Shane, 1954 Three Coins In The Fountain. Some others were: 'Golding Earrings, starring Marlene Dietrich, 'The Big Clock, Love Letters, The Greatest Show on Earth.

Among the hit songs he wrote for various films are: (All below to lyrics by Ned Washington): For film 'All Women Have Secrets', 'I Live Again Because I'm In Love Again', for film 'I Wanted Wings', "Born to Love", 1946 for film 'The Uninvited', "Stella by Starlight", 1950 For film, 'My Foolish Heart' "My Foolish Heart", for film, 'Lucky Stiff' "Loveliness", for film 'The Wild Blue Yonder' "The Heavy Bomber Song", For film, 'The Greatest Show on Earth' "The Greatest Show on Earth" lyric New Washington., "Be a Jumping Jack", lyric New Washington, 1952 "When I Fall In Love". "Love Letters", Lyric Edward Heyman. "Written In The Wind", Lyric Sammy Cahn.

For Film, 'Northwest Mounted Police', the song, "Does the Moon Shine Through the Tall Trees?", the Lyric was by Frank Loesser. For film, 'The Searching Wind', the title song, "The Searching Wind", lyric by Edward Heyman. For film, 'The Fabulous Senorita', "You've

For film, Golden Earring's', the title song, "Golden Earring's", Young collaborated on this tune with the song-writing team of Jay Livingston and Ray Evans. 1956 For film, 'Around the World in Eighty Days', the title song, "Around the World in Eighty Days", lyric Ned Washington. This was the last picture released with Victor's name in the credits.

All told, Young had been nominated for an Academy Award 22 times, and won just this one time, posthumously. His award for this film was accepted by Elizabeth Taylor.

Victor Young suffered a cerebral hemorrhage on November 9th, at his home in Desert Hot Springs, CA, and died November 10th, 1956. He was just 56 years old. Ferde Grofe was called upon to complete the score on which Victor had been working, a musical comedy based on the life of Mark Twain. After his death, Young's wife presented all Victor's personal possessions and musical scores to Brandeis University, in Waltham, MA. Some years later, Brandeis gave half of the collection to the Boston Public Library. The rest of the collection, including his Oscar, is still in boxes in the basement of the University. Much of the information on Victor Young was kindly supplied by his niece, Ms. Bobbie Fromberg.

*NOTE: SAMSON AND DELILAH premiered on October 31, 1949. However, the movie was not issued for general release in the United States until 1950. Because a film's qualification for the Academy Awards depends on the year in which it is commercially released in Los Angeles County, California, SAMSON AND DELILAH's Academy Award nominations were earned at the 1951 ceremony honoring the films of 1950.

Victor Young died last Saturday. The funeral was today at the Hollywood Cemetery. This cemetery is midway between RKO and Paramount. Crowds of people could not get into the chapel. We stood on the grass and heard the service over loudspeakers. You could hear the warning buzzers from the Paramount lot signalling for quiet during takes. Victor would have approved. A red-haired woman sat on the outskirts of the crowd on a chair provided by one of the cemetery attendants and sobbed throughout.

In his wryly illuminating diaries, published as Musician: A Hollywood Journal (Lyle Stuart Inc., 1987), longtime film and TV composer Lyn Murray succinctly chronicled the funeral of one of Hollywood's busiest and most beloved composers whose death in November 1956 struck beyond the covey of composers, musicians and orchestrators then working in tinseltown. One easily understands why, too. In his own, ever-infectious way, Victor Young allowed Gabby from Gulliver's Travels to be far more endearing than the feisty, pint-sized towncrier had a right to hope; he helped Basil Rathbone shed his persona as the world's greatest crime-solver long enough for movie-goers to really believe him as a cunning Bluebeard in The Mad Doctor; he made Ray Milland slightly more passable as a gypsy in Golden Earrings; ensured Joan Crawford seemed tougher than any man alive in Johnny Guitar; and made ghosts seem far more real than ever before in The Uninvited. And even if critics might insist others in the filmmaking craft had more to do with these feats than Young, the upbeat, engaging composer still ensured that viewers left the theater with a tune dancing between their ears. Today Victor Young's passing neatly symbolizes the end of an era. By the time of Young's death, fellow film composer Erich Wolfgang Korngold had abandoned film scoring, Max Steiner's best scores were well behind him and Alfred Newman was but a few years from seeing his amazing music department at 20th Century-Fox all but dismantled. Within a short but turbulent decade, Hollywood's old studio system would be in shambles and the need for robust romantic film scores of the type Young and his colleagues specialized in would be slim. And yet, it is somehow reassuring to realize that, of all Hollywood's film scoring heavyweights of the 1930s, '40s and '50s, Victor Young might have flourished almost as well in the 1960s and early '70s. Certainly, his greatest admirer, Henry Mancini, was able to do well enough in those lean and later years, partially because he, like his mentor Young, was able to navigate his way easily in both light, pop-oriented material as well as tuneful, richly orchestrated film music. In the end, though, Young's own penchant for fine cigars and rich foods and his lifelong habit of overworking -- often agreeing to several projects from two or three studios at a time -- finally finished him. But what an incredible legacy of music he left. Whenever Hollywood's golden age of film music is discussed today, Victor Young's name surfaces only as a grand afterthought. Several reasons exist for this. For one thing, some of his film scores initially seem to lack the musical ingenuity and titanic individuality of, say, Miklos Rozsa or Erich Wolfgang Korngold. It has been noted, too, that when faced with films he found lackluster or uninspiring, Young occasionally failed to furnish his best (though one is also reminded that colleague Korngold eventually gave up film music altogether because, for one thing he tired of the increasing number of substandard films he was asked to score).

And there are few stories of Young stubbornly standing up for his principles in the legendary, much-loved manner of Bernard Herrmann or Franz Waxman. What's more, associates have remarked how Young, possibly because of the sheer volume of work he tackled, not only proved somewhat sloppy when composing but also frequently (and happily) left most decisions at symphonic coloring to able orchestrators such as Leo Shuken. Perhaps worst of all, he didn't even look like a composer. Anyone working in the busy music departments of Hollywood during that era is quick to remember Victor Young as a compactly built, cigar-smoking character whose very appearance suggested a Chicago warehouseman more than a distinguished film composer, arranger and recording artist. "Amazing," fellow composer Irving Gertz said of Young on occasion of the recording at hand. "The first time I met him was at Columbia and he was coming to the podium to conduct. He was a little guy who looked like a prizefighter with a cigar. I asked somebody who he was. It was Victor Young." (Of course, if one wonders just what a composer of that period was supposed to look like, the public back then might well have suggested stern-looking character actor Victor Francen, who portrayed the stern, temperamental conductor in Tales of Manhattan and stern, temperamental pianist in The Beast With Five Fingers. And yet Young effortlessly produced something other composers then and now find difficult to serve up -- melody. It's little wonder he found inspiration and kinship in the music of that great displaced Russian, Sergei Rachmaninoff, who had himself settled in Los Angeles during Young's career and continued writing in an unashamedly romantic and songful manner. "He was very nice," Hollywood composer Herman Stein said during a lively 1996 interview, recalling a lunch he enjoyed with Victor Young decades before. "I told him Rachmaninoff was thoroughly underrated as a composer and he said, 'Oh, yes, I agree. He's not just a second-rate Tchaikovsky!' But I think a lot of people held that opinion then." Even as scores embraced more brittle hard-edged tones in the 1950s, Young refused to bend to the trends of the times. "He wrote music from the heart," music editor and associate Bill Stinson later remarked of Young. "He had so much elody within him. He may have been the best melody writer we ever had in Hollywood." There was little telling what might trigger such melodies. Today his full-blooded scores for such popular, critically successful films as For Whom the Bells Toll (1943), Samson and Delilah (1949) and Around the World in 80 Days (1956) are frequently cited, yet there is just as much musical merit in less prestigious fare such as Blackbeard the Pirate (1952), bristling with soaring melodies and memorable battle music and nefarious harmonies. Like the best of Victor Young's music, it is as fully satisfying heard away from the film as it is alongside it. Young's genius as a songwriter, composer and arranger, coupled with his cheerful, pliable personality, certainly won him the respect and affection of many in Hollywood's filmmaking and musical realms. And while such qualities also probably resulted in the overwork that eventually taxed his health and contributed to his death at a relatively young age, Young's impact was evident at his jam-packed funeral. No less than Frank Sinatra and Michael Todd showed up to pay tribute to the fallen composer. But perhaps no one in the entertainment business drew so much music from Victor Young as Paramount's autocratic director and producer, Cecil B. DeMille, who recognized the exuberance and great appeal of Young's music (as well as Young's amazing industriousness and willingness to tolerate the blunt orders DeMille routinely barked to his crew). And so, in 1940, DeMille tapped Young to score Northwest Mounted Police and all manner of spectacle thereafter. Only in 1956 did Young take the highly uncharacteristic move of stepping aside in his long-running collaboration with the demanding (and, whatever else, steadfastly loyal) filmmaker, owing to Young's rapidly declining state of health. Even then, Young did his old boss a supreme favor by recommending to DeMille that a young composer by the name of Elmer Bernstein be tapped for the job -- advice DeMille wisely took. And what a job it was: Composing the score for DeMille's three-and-a-half-hour epic remake The Ten Commandments (1956)

much of it, intentionally or otherwise, showing Young's influence on even the highly individualistic Bernstein. Although Cecil B. DeMille no longer commands the attention he once did as a filmmaker, one cannot deny his presence during the cinema's first 50 years. Granted, he may have been well on his way to becoming wearily predictable during the final decade of his life, hackneyed in his epics mixing innocuous sex (including a love of leading ladies taking peek-a-boo baths), patriotism (so that even an army of the truly dead took to the field in The Unconquered) and spectacle (and who has not initially marveled at the parting of the Red Sea in either of his takes on The Ten Commandments). In some ways, DeMille had become the P.T. Barnum of Hollywood during his later years, not only tackling all sorts of mammoth, eye-catching spectacle but touting his films with such flamboyance that one felt un-American ignoring DeMille's exhortations that one and all see his latest film. It was only natural then DeMille finally mount a film in a genuine circus, as he did in The Greatest Show on Earth (1952). Whatever one thinks of the storyline -- mostly about ambition, jealousy and love among circus stars -- the film still has an air of awe about it, with DeMille's cameramen following the high excitement and riveting drama of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus in performance and linking it to their credo that the show must go on -- even after a horrible train wreck sets half of the circus animals loose, injures the circus manager and leaves the performers and crew in a quandary over how to make good on their next performance. Victor Young's spirited circus march captures the determination and energy behind their drive and the sheer joy at their success, piccolos soaring acrobatically overhead while brass and percussion drive home the point. Even those critics who think some of Young's music is itself a bit too obvious would have to concede his upfront talents fit this picture like a glove. Certainly, it's more interesting than most genuine circus marches. One can only begin to appreciate the vast amount of work Young produced when considering his amazing versatility. In addition to scoring more than 300 films during the two decades he spent in Hollywood, he also wrote numerous popular songs for some of the best-known singers of the day, proved successful as a recording and radio artist, was peerless when it came to arranging, and even found time to compose concert works. When colleagues later remarked that music was a natural part of Young's makeup, they weren't far wrong. Born Aug. 8, 1900, in Chicago, he found music evident throughout the house. His father, William Young, was a tenor with the Chicago Opera Company, though he reportedly abandoned his family after the death of Victor's mother. With nowhere else to turn, 10-year-old Victor and his sister Helen went to Poland to be raised by elderly grandparents. It was in Warsaw that Victor's musical roots took hold. Thanks to the savings his grandfather had set aside as a tailor, Victor was able to study at the Warsaw Conservatory of Music, devoting much of his attention to the violin. He must have been an apt pupil. Family tradition has it that Victor's debut as a concert violinist with the Warsaw Philharmonic proved so successful a wealthy music-lover presented him with a 1730 Guarnerius, an instrument Young continued to play upon his return to America. Young's versatility went on parade only after 1914, when his concertizing across Europe was interrupted by World War I. Upon his return to Chicago, he picked up work of all kinds, and in the 1920s he toured as a concert violinist. However, as his musical gifts became apparent to himself and others, he took a turn toward popular music, quickly finding great success as a songwriter and band leader. A career in radio began in Chicago in the late 1920s but eventually moved to New York City. In 1935 he moved to Los Angeles, where he continued his success, forming another ensemble and continuing to air on radio regularly. By this time, he was writing and arranging songs for some of the most prominent performers of the day, including Al Jolson and Don Ameche. But even before he began composing film scores for Paramount -- always his home studio,

A remarkably prolific composer, Victor Young wrote songs and underscoring that appeared in hundreds of films which earned him 22 Academy Award nominations during his relatively short career. Although Young died after only twenty years in the business, romance standards like "When I Fall in Love", "Stella By Starlight" and "Love Letters" kept him alive in film credits long past 1956.

The son of a tenor with the Chicago Opera, Young proved a child prodigy, beginning to play the violin at age six. About four years later, following the death of their mother, the young boy and his sister Helen were sent to live with their grandfather in Poland. Although he was a tailor of meager means, Young's grandfather recognized his charges' musical potential and managed to send them both to study at the Warsaw Conservatory of Music. While still a teenager, Young made his debut as a concert violinist at the Warsaw Philharmonic before moving on to tours of Europe and the United States. The classically trained musician proved a remarkably adept composer of popular tunes. His memorable melodies were big hits in his day and live on as durable standards, songs that remain part of every nightclub singer's repertoire to the present. Young had his first hit with 1928's "Sweet Sue, Just You", and would later find success matching his melodies with evocative scoring, becoming a prolific and respected film composer.

In 1936 Young began working for Paramount Pictures, first as a musical director and soon as the studio's chief composer and arranger, scoring and arranging nearly 100 feature films there. His ability and versatility were proven with his flawless work on such disparate efforts as the large scale Western "Wells Fargo" (1937), the zany Preston Sturges comedy "The

Palm Beach Story (1942) and the Raymond Chandler-penned suspenseful drama "The Blue Dahlia" (1946). Young's notable Paramount features also include his magnificent scoring of the 1943 war drama "For Whom the Bell Tolls", the atmospheric accompaniment to Fritz Lang's "Ministry of Fear" (1944), his melodic and heart-wrenching music for the moving melodrama "To Each His Own" (1946) and the unforgettable score for "Shane" (1953). His capabilities as a film composer, and particularly as a memorable theme writer, could often make an otherwise unremarkable movie noteworthy, as was the case with 1945's "Love Letters", largely uninspired aside from Young's romantic title tune.

Remarkably prolific, the composer's credit appeared in dozens of films for studios other than Paramount. Young did outstanding work at Republic Pictures, his compositions including the dulcet theme for "Rio Grande" (1950), the lilting take on traditional music for "The Quiet Man" (1952), and the dramatic scoring for the flamboyant Western "Johnny Guitar" (1954). His work for other studios also won him several Oscar nominations, including the original score to Columbia Pictures' "Golden Boy" (1939), and the title songs of both "My Foolish Heart" (RKO, 1950) and "Written on the Wind" (Universal, 1956)--both of which also proved top chart hits.

The composer teamed up with various lyricists during his career, most frequently and most notably with Ned Washington, who put words to Young's classics including "My Foolish Heart" and "Stella by Starlight". Other lyric contributors include Arthur Freed, writer of "Wells Fargo", and "Love Letters" lyricist Edward Heyman. In addition to his busy film career, the composer won an Emmy Award for his work as musical director of the special "Light's Diamond Jubilee" (1954), a television celebration of Edison's invention of the light bulb that aired on the then-four major networks (ABC, CBS, NBC and Dumont). He was also the musical director of "The Milton Berle Show" (NBC, 1955-56). After his 1956 death, Young finally won an Academy Award for that year's sublime score to "Around the World in 80 Days".

RUTH YOUNG BLOCK, 100

Longtime owner of electrolysis firm

By H. Gregory Meyer

Tribune staff reporter

August 9, 2002

Ruth Young Block was a hard-nosed entrepreneur of unwanted hair. The former owner of a Loop electrolysis business and leader of two cosmetic hair-removal associations turned a life of Depression-era penury into one that allowed a long and comfortable lakefront retirement. Mrs. Block, 100, died Wednesday, Aug. 7, of heart failure in her Chicago apartment, said her physician, Dr. Jack Bulmash. The Polish immigrant opened a hair-removal office on borrowed money in 1937 after several lean economic years, said her granddaughter, Barbara Jaffee. Short of capital to invest in a $250 electrolysis machine, she fashioned one with the help of a vacuum-cleaner repairman, her granddaughter said. "It was this that catapulted me to the very top," Mrs. Block wrote in autobiographical notes about the invention. Further tinkering led to a machine that removed hair painlessly, her granddaughter added. Her office in Suite 1313 of the Marshall Field's annex building at 25 E. Washington St. occupied what later became a hotbed for hair removal, said American Electrology Association president Gerrelyn Adams. Within a block of her Ruth Young Block Ltd. firm were at least six other electrolysis businesses, an electrolysis equipment supplier and the Kree Institute of Electrolysis. Mrs. Block remained so convinced that Suite 1313 was her company's lucky number that she took its door with her when she moved downstairs, Jaffee said. Her daughter Carol Block Rohr took over the business, now based in Orland Park with eight Illinois locations, a company representative said. She was one of the founding members of the Illinois Electrologists' Association and a president of the American association, Adams said. But as a businesswoman she did not always agree with them. In the 1950s, Adams said, Mrs. Block introduced a light-based hair-removal machine to Illinois that had been banned in California. "They brought this to Illinois and said they were the only ones that had it. Yes, that's true, because it didn't work," Adams said. When the Illinois Electrologists' Association objected to the apparatus, Adams said, Mrs. Block formed a splinter association. "I think they've disbanded," Adams said. In a 1994 interview, Mrs. Block told the Tribune that she followed flapper styles in the 1920s as a way to mark her American identity. She spent her first paycheck, from a job as a stenographer in the Stock Exchange building, on a pair of patent leather shoes. Mrs. Block also is survived by another daughter, Fern Jaffee; two other grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren. No services are scheduled. Copyright (c) 2002, Chicago Tribune

Thereby preventing their deportations back to Poland.

Written by Ruth Candace Tachna about her father Max Tachna [Wed, 7 Mar 2001], "Tac did not found ACLU. He did found American Jewish Congress along with Rabbi Stephen Wise. I have pictures of a testimonial dinner for Tac that Congress gave when he was president of the Manhattan division. Wise is in that picture. He enjoyed good speakers and was an ardent fan of Jon Haynes Homes a famous minister and we have a pew in his church in NY. As I child I had to listen to speeches by Harry Emerson Fosdick a VERY rightg wing preaher because Dad appreciated his abilities as a speaker. He also admired Billy Graham and I can still hear him praising Graham's use of gesture. It wasn't the religion that mattered to him. Dad also was in love with good theatre and I remember him telling me about a director who tied his star actress's hands but at her climax scene she broke the bonds to raise her arms and he told her that was the way to use gesture. If we ever said "uh" he was on us, "Think first". Dad was a very good trial lawyer and a frustrated actor which all good trial lawyers have to be. When we were little and he read stories to us he didn't just read he acted them. Also he was very handsome and knew it. He once said, "I only need one or two women on the jury to win my case." But he also taught me that no case is won or lost in court, it's won or lost in your office and nothing takes the place of proper preparation. I remember that one of the clients became furious with my father because of the grilling Dad put him through in the office but his comment afterward that there wasn't a single question put to him during the trial that he didn't have the winning answer."

Written by Leslie Ann (nee Bauman) Levy about her grandfather Max Tachna [Wed, 7 Mar 2001], "Robert, I'm forwarding this to Mom who can answer much better than I. However, here is some partial information. He loved religion, almost any religion, provided speeches were involved. (That's also why he became a member of Alcoholics Anonymous! He didn't drink, but he liked listening to the people giving speeches about their lives.) I have no idea if he wanted exposure to diverse people. Mom thinks he was not involved in founding the ACLU; I think I remember his telling me otherwise. I think Mom can better describe what kind of law he practiced. However, I recall that he incorporated Longines in this country, as well as Gimbel's and possibly Saks 5th Avenue? Anyway, I think there was a second prominent department store. I would assume that he must have enjoyed litigation, given his love of speech-making. I was present at some of his speeches, and he certainly was a fine speaker. He had the audience in the palm of his hand. Mom just told me that he founded the Jewish War Veterans Society. I think I already told you that he founded American Jewish Congress. Frankly, he did so much that it's hard to keep track of everything. Again, Mom will recall more. Leslie"

He died in June 1968 in New York, New York, USA.

" I got paid on my first job five dollars a week. I was paid on Friday and the boss borrowed it back on Monday because it was the height of the Depression in those days. Nobody had any money. Nobody in that venue.... My husband was getting a higher rate of pay than anybody else in the class. He was getting fifteen dollars a week. We were rich; we had twenty dollars a week between us."

(Robert James Dicken, C.S.M., U.S. Navy).
To: The Secretary of the Navy.

Via: The Commander U.S. Submarines, Eastern Australia.

Subject: Personal observations of SIMS #409 disaster.

1. On May 7, I was serving as Chief Signalman on board the U.S.S. Sims. We were employed convoying the U.S. Navy Tanker Neosho when attacked by Japanese planes, bombed and sunk. After several days we were picked up by the U.S.S. Henley and while enroute to Brisbane Australia, I prepared a report which I gave to the Commanding Officer of the U.S.S. Neosho who had been taken off by the U.S.S. Henley.

That report is as follows:

At Sea
May 13, 1942

From: Dicken, R.J., C.S.M., U.S. N.
To: The C.O. U.S.S. Neosho.

Subject: Personal observations of SIMS #409 disaster.

On May 7 at 0930 I was in the Chief's quarters and heard a man in #1 handling room exclaim that a bomb had lit right alongside. General Quarters sounded immediately and duty gun opened fire. Upon reaching bridge the other guns had commenced firing on horizontal bombers. Recognition signals were attempted but no reply.

There were a large number of our shells which failed to burst at the beginning of the attack but after several rounds, number unknown, the fuse settings seemed to be operating satisfactory as bursts were observed near the enemy planes.

At beginning of attack Sims went to full speed and patrolled on either bow of tanker. Our gunfire seemed very effective in keeping the planes high and on the move.

Observed one bomb score near miss, port side, amidships. No damage reported. One casualty, slight shoulder wound, on #2 gun. Man treated during lull and returned to gun.

High level attack lasted ten to fifteen minutes.

For next two hours several Radar contacts made, distance fifteen to twenty miles, but no

#1 gun appeared to be blistered.

About 1155 planes approached, identification attempted and upon no response the order to commence fire was given. Enemy planes began dive bombing attack on tanker. A steady rate of fire was maintained from all 5" guns.

About 1215 Sims received direct hit on or near after set torpedo tubes. Bomb apparently pierced deck and exploded in after engine room. Deck buckled forward of after deck house. Radar fell across gig. Received two more hits, one on after deck house, port side forward, which appeared to have caused only local damage. Another hit on #4 gun caused local damage. #1 and #2 guns were continuing to fire by local control.

Personnel was ordered off bridge and reported to Assistant Chief Engineer Ensign Tachna who ordered us to take off our shoes and put motor whale boat in water.

Numerous fireroom personnel seemed uninjured by first hit in engine room. This force assisted in lowering boat. Two men in boat when lowered. Boat began drifting clear of side. I went over the side, swam to boat, took tiller and began picking up personnel in water.

The Captain, still on bridge, ordered me aft to try to get aboard to flood after magazines and extinguish fire on after deck house. This was necessary due to fact that main deck between after deck house and machine shop was awash.

An attempt was made to get aboard. Ship began settling from aft, whale boat pulled clear and immediately afterwards the boilers blew up followed by another but smaller explosion. The ship broke in two parts, and sank.

All men that were not apparently dead were taken aboard, search made for two life rafts with from ten to twenty (total) men aboard. We then proceeded to tanker and placed ourselves under that command. There were fifteen Sims survivors in boat.

I have questioned Sims survivors for more data but no further information available.

Respectfully submitted
Robert James Dicken C.S.M.

2. I never saw any sign of panic. Everyone was on their stations doing their job and the whole ship worked as a well organized unit until the end. Discipline was excellent.

3. There are a few outstanding things that I can remember in addition to the above report:

The number one gun crew stood by their gun and kept up a steady rate of fire after the paint on their gun was burning and the ship was at such an angle that the decks were awash. The Chief Engineer was wounded severely but carried out several duties under extremely difficult conditions. He tried to fire the forward set of torpedo tubes to assist the Captain in lightening the ship and to remove the danger of the torpedoes exploding aboard. He also extinguished the fire on the torpedo deck house at the time. One outstanding act was done by an enlisted man named E.F. MUNCH, MM2c, just before he jumped over the side to be picked up by my boat, he secured a depth charge to the deck so it would not go over the side or accidentally explode on deck.

4. The last I saw of the Commanding Officer he was standing on the bridge when the ship was blown up by the explosion. He showed an example of courage throughout the entire engagement.

5. To the best of my knowledge and belief all muster rolls, log books and valuable papers went down with the Sims. We did not have any books or papers in my boat at all. My boat was not loaded with a view to permanently abandon ship. The Captain believed that he could save the ship and was doing everything in his power to do so right up until the ship blew up and sank.

6. During the entire four days of hard work in the boat, part of which time we were alongside the Neosho, and part clear of the Neosho, the conduct of the men was very good. We did the best we could to provision the boat and prepare it for sea. For the first three days we were repairing the 18 inch hole in the boat.

7. Our small boat was left tied up alongside the Neosho when we were taken aboard the Henley. When the Neosho was fired on and purposely sunk, this boat went down with her.

No property of any kind remains of the Sims.

8. To the best of my knowledge and belief the following are the only survivors of the U.S.S. Sims:

Notes for Arthur Milton Sills:

From his obituary [Detroit Free Press]:

Arthur M. Sills, whose passion was wheeling and dealing in the real estate business, died of cancer of the pancreas Wednesday [February 7th, 2003] at his home in Bloomfield Hills. He was 77 and was called Archie. He owned First Holding Corporation and FH Management, both in West Bloomfield. Mr. Sills worked until the day he died, and his daughter Susie, who worked with him, will continue the business. When he wasn't actually on the job, he'd drive around in his convertible looking at property. "When we'd go for a ride when we were kids, we'd look for a piece of property," his daughter said. "He worked because he enjoyed it. It was love to him. "After everybody closed and he couldn't possibly look at any other property, he would go to the Jewish Community Center and work out, and he had many friendships there. "Of course, I'm sure when they were running on the track they talked about property." Mr. Sills was born in New York and came to Detroit when he was about 10 years old. He graduated from Central High School and went to Wayne State University for a semester before he was drafted into the Army in 1943 during World War II and sent to Europe. "He drove an ambulance and couldn't stand the sight of blood," his daughter said. "He also didn't have a driver's license." At home after the war, he went to the University of Michigan for two years, then went to work for his family's retail clothing business, Wonderful Tots and Teens, on the east side. "My mother made him go to law school, and he went to the Detroit College of Law," his daughter said. Armed with his degree, he joined the law practice of a man who was heavily involved in real estate work - and the die was cast. Besides his daughter, survivors include his wife of 54 years, Rhoda; another daughter, Claudia; a son Douglas, and four grandchildren. His son Lawrence died in the 1987 Northwest Airlines [flight 255] plane crash near Metro Airport. The funeral will be at 1 p.m. today at the Dorfman Chapel, 30440 Twelve Mile Road, Farmington Hills, with burial in Clover Hill Park Cemetery, Birmingham.

Notes for Selden Allen Tachna:

My father Selden Allen Tachna was born April 7, 1937 in Detroit, Michigan. He was a public school teacher in Detroit where he taught social studies. During the long summer break from teaching, and on other holidays when school was not in session, he drove a Greyhound bus. Something I used to love accompanying him on the many occasions he used to take me with him. The primary school where my father taught for most of his career was at Brookes Middle School in Detroit. My father loved teaching and he was very dedicated to his students, who all loved and treasured him dearly.

My father's parents, my grandparents, were Harry Nathan Tachna and Rose Perlmutter. They were both Polish Jews, born in Eastern Europe, who immigrated to the United States in the early 1920's from Poland.

My grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna was born in the Polish town of Mlawa on Aug 01, 1902 and my grandmother Rose Perlmutter was born in the Polish village of Nasielsk on May 27, 1905.

My grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna's parents were Shimon Alter Tachna and Zysla Kohn.

Shimon Alter Tachna was born on Jan 01, 1861 in Mlawa and Zysla Kon was born Mar 27, 1862 in the Polish capital city of Warsaw. My father's grandparents were married October 29, 1880 in the Polish town of Nowy Dwor.

My great grandfather Shimon Alter Tachna was a great tzaddik, saint, and Jewish religious author. He died in the year 1933 in Mlawa where he was born and lived his whole life. He also used to work as a leather tanner by trade.

My great grandfather Shimon Alter Tachna's parents were Icek Jankief Tachna and Chani Lai Cytryn.

Icek Jankief Tachna was born in Mlawa, Poland in about the year 1833. He died from starvation during the first world war, in Mlawa, on Mar 29, 1917. That he died from starvation was established by his grandson Arnold Tachna in the early 1990's.

Icek Jankief Tachna's wife, and my father's great grandmother Chani Lai Cytryn, was born January 13, 1833 in the small Polish village of Nasielsk, just like my father's mother, and my grandmother, Rose Perlmutter
Chani Lai (nee Cytryn) Tachna's parents were Moshe Hersh Cytryn and Ruchla.

Concerning Icek Jankief Tachna dying from starvation during the first world war, it should be known that there was allot of disease and hunger in Poland during the first world war. That was due to allot of the fighting between the Germans and the Russians having taken place there. There was also a cholera epidemic at that time that took the life of my grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna's sister, and my father's aunt, Szajndla Tachna during the first world war in about the year 1916.

My great grandmother Zysla (nee Kohn) Tachna was born on March 27, 1862 in the Polish capital city Warsaw. She was murdered in the Holocaust by the Nazis, probably in the Nazi's Treblinka death camp were many early deportations of Mlawa's Jews were deported to.

Zysla Kohn'a parents both came from great and important rabbinical families. Her father Yechiel Michel Cohn was a great rabbi and author on Torah. Her mother was Cypra Ruchla Bharier, whose father Rabbi Jakób Zalman Bharier is considered to this day to be one the great Jewish rabbis and authorities on Jewish religious law. They both have very important Jewish rabbinical ancestry themselves.

My father's great grandfather Yechiel Michel Cohn was born Mar 15, 1832 in Warsaw. His wife, and my father's great grandmother, Cypra Ruchla Bharier was born in about the year 1830 in Konstantynówi, Łódź, Piotrków, Poland that was then part of the Russian Empire. They were married in Konstantynówi on Feb 13, 1850. Cypra Ruchla (nee Bharier) Cohn was a daughter of Rabbi Yaakov Zelman Baharier.

The surname Bharier is an acronym for Rabbi Yaakov Zelman Bharier that is, "Son of the rabbi Moshe Yehoshua Ravitzer from Rawicz." In Hebrew it is, "Ben Harav Rabbi Yehoshua."

Rabbi Moshe Yehoshua Ravitzer was the rabbi of Rawicz, Poland and was married to Eidel Horowitz who was the sister of the famous rabbis Rabbi Shmuel Shmelke HaLevi Horowitz of Nikolsburg and Rabbi Pinchas Horowitz of Frankfurt. Rabbi Shmuel Shmelke HaLevi Horowitz was the founder of the Nikolsburg Chassidic dynasty.

My father's great grandfather Yechiel Michel Cohn was the son of the famous Jewish Torah authority and religious leader Rabbi Eleazar Leyzer Wolf (HaKohan) Cohn. He is known to this day by the acronym, "Maharach" which stands for him being a great Jewish religious leader and religious authority and the son of Rabbi Wolf Michel Cohn Leipziger. The Maharach's wife, and Yechiel Michel Cohn's mother, was the famous Breindel Lorbeerbaum who was the daughter of the famous rabbi and Jewish religious leader Rabbi Jakób Lorbeerbaum of Lissa.

The Maharach, Rabbi Eleazar Leyzer Wolf (HaKohan) Cohn was the eldest child of Sora Rochel nee Cohn and Wolf Michel Cohn Leipziger. He was born in 1791, perhaps in Warsaw, and died in about 1883 Sochaczew, present day Poland that was then part of the Russian Empire. The Maharach was a merchant and a Chassidic Rabbi. He was a disciple of the Chassidic rebbes Simcha Bunem of Pzysucha, Menachem Mendel Morgenstern of Kock (the Kotzker rebbe), and Itzchak Meir Rothernberg Alter of Ger [Gora Kalwaria] (the Chiddushei HaRim). Many of his descendants are Chassidic rabbis.

My father Selden Allen Tachna's great great grandmother Briendel, was the daughter of the famous Jewish Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum from Lissa. Lissa is also known as Lesno. Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum was born in 1760 in the town of Lissa (Prussia) where he was Av Beis Din, or head of the Jewish rabbinical court. He died on May 25, 1832 in Stryi, Lviv Oblast, Ukraine. In his youth, Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum was a pupil of Rabbi Meshullam Egra, and later engaged in business which, upon failing, he became Av Beis Din of Monastyriska where he also founded a yeshiva. He became the Av Beis Din of Kalisz and later of Lissa. In Lissa he taught Rabbi Akiva Eger the Yuunger who lived there from 1770-1791. He later returned to Kalisz where he lived for ten years. Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum most important books on Judaism were Chavat Da'at published in Lvov, Ukraine in 1799; Mekor Chayim published in Zolkiew, Ukraine in 1807; Netivot HaMishpat published in 1809 in Dyhernfurth, Lvov, and Zolkiew, Ukraine; Torat Gittin published in 1813 in Frankfurt-on-Oder, Germany; Beit Yaakov published in 1823; and Kehillat Yaakov published in Lvov in 1831. Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum also wrote commentaries on Ecclesiastes, Lamentations, and the Song of Songs, a compendium of laws Derech HaChayim in 1828, and a commentary on the Passover Haggadah and rituals. The Passover Haggadah is what Jews read on the first two nights of Passover that recounts the Jews deliverance from slavery in Egypt and their journey to the land G-d promised them, Eretz Yisroel that is today the present State of Israel.

From the Bharier family, and the ancestry of Rabbi Jakób Zalman Bharier, my father Selden Allen Tachna, and myself of course, are direct descendants of the most famous and legendary Jewish rabbis, Rabbi Judah ben Betzalel Loew, the Maharal of Prague. From the family of The Maharach, Rabbi Eleazar Leyzer Wolf (HaKohan) Cohn, my father Selden Allen Tachna is also a direct descendant of another great and famous Jewish rabbi and probably the greatest and certainly one of the most famous Jewish commentators on Jewish religious law and religious belief, Rabbi Shlomo ben Isaac Itzhaki, who is also popularly known by the acronym for his name that is Rashi.

Rabbi Judah ben Betzalel Loew, the Maharal of Prague was born April 10, 1512 in Poznan (Posen), Poland and he died on August 22, 1609 in the city of Prague that is today in the Czech Republic.

The Maharal, Rabbi Judah ben Betzalel Loew was an important Talmudic scholar, Jewish mystic, mathematician, astronomer, and philosopher who, for most of his life, served as a leading rabbi in the cities of Mikulov in Moravia and Prague in Bohemia. He is most famous amongst Jews for what he wrote on Jewish philosophy and Jewish mysticism. He is also the subject of a later legend that he created the Golem of Prague, an animate being fashioned from clay; that he created to save the lives of the Jews of Prague from the murderous, false, and antisemitic blood libels that were widespread at that time.

Rabbi Shlomo ben Isaac Itzhaki, who is also popularly known by the acronym for his name that is Rashi, was born February 22, 1040 in Troyes, Champagne-Ardenne, France and he died July 13, 1105 also in Troyes, Champagne-Ardenne, France. Rashi authored comprehensive commentaries on the Talmud and other works of the Jewish Torah. Born in Troyes, Rashi studied Torah studies in Worms, Germany under German rabbi Yaakov ben Yakar and French rabbi Isaac ben Eliezer Halevi, both of whom were pupils of the famed scholar Gershom ben Judah. Rashi is acclaimed for his ability to present the basic meaning of the text in a concise and lucid fashion, Rashi's commentaries appeal to both learned scholars and beginning students, and his works remain a centerpiece of contemporary Torah study.

From both the Maharal of Prague and Rashi, my father Selden Allen Tachna's ancestry can be directly traced back some 3,000 years to my father, and thus myself, being a direct descendant of the biblical King David of Israel. Many famous Jewish families are able to trace their ancestry to the biblical King David, as my father's family can. Much of it is traced from the Jewish Luria family, whom my father, and thus myself, are also members of. The Jewish Luria family is recorded in the Guinness book of world records, and also in other sources, as being the oldest family in the world. The Jewish Luria family is unique that it can trace itself back thousands of years, even to the biblical King David of Israel. There as so can my father's, and thus my own, ancestry be accurately traced back to the first Jewish King, the biblical King David of Israel.

My father Selden Allen Tachna is calculated to be the 99th generation great grandson of King David. That makes me the 100th generation great grandson of King David as well. From King David, my father's descent is traced through 2 of his sons, the biblical Jewish King Solomon and King David's other son Shephatiah. It was the biblical Jewish King Solomon, who my father is the 98th generation great grandson of, and thus myself being the 97th generation great grandson of, who built the first Jewish holy Temple in Jerusalem.

Yet all in all, my father Selden Allen Tachna, whose full Hebrew name was Chaim Shimon Alter Ha-Levy, was a very kind, giving, caring, just, and totally honest man. His many good qualities are still widely praised and recounted to this day with great awe and affection. There are still many stories of my father's great kindness, honesty, and acts of justice. All who knew him and remember him even to this day are amazed by his many great and praiseworthy acts of love and kindness. He selflessly gave to others his entire life, and is rewarded with their great admiration and praise that continues today.

My father's yahrtzeit, or Jewish anniversary of his passing away is 18 Tevet 5743 which fell on the day he died January 2, 1983. His yahrtzeit is significant, and a sign of G-d's blessing and reward to him for the great life he lead, for it falls on the 18th day of the Jewish month of Tevet.

In Judaism numbers are listed as letters, and the letters spelled by the number 18, for the 18th day of the Jewish month of Tevet that my father passed away on, are listed as the Hebrew letters of khess and yud. Together the letters khess and yud spell the Hebrew word, "Chai." Chai is the Hebrew word for Life. And for the wonderful life my father lived. he has the reward of eternal Life. That is what we Jews believe. It comes from Judaism and is taught in the Jewish Torah.

So that although my father passed away on January 2, 1983 that is 42 years ago, he still has been blessed with Life, eternal life. And as we Jews believe in the eventual coming of Moshiach (Hebrew for Messiah) when G-d will resurrect the righteous to live in the eternal Olam Habbah (Hebrew for, "The World to Come") that is G-d's greatest reward for all, and it is for "ALL", my father shall be there and I and the rest of us will know and love him directly again! He's actually never died. G-d has blessed him with "chai", Life!

Letter from Lyle Grant (Professor, Psychology Centre, Athabasca Univesity, Athabasca Alberta, Canada T9S 3A3), former student of Selden Allen Tachna:

"August 19, 2001.

Dear Robert,

I was a student of your father at Brooks Junior High School in the mid-1960's. I did a web search for him to see if I could contact him and thank him for being such a fine teacher. In this process I encountered your interesting web site. Your father was an excellent teacher and a very fine man. Thank you for your work in putting together the web site and allowing me to learn more about your family's heritage.

As I mentioned, your father was a superb teacher who excelled at inducing students to discuss issues and to think for themselves. He wanted his students to behave as individual thinkers rather than followers of a trend or a clique. He kept an orderly, no-nonsense classroom and insisted that all the students respect each other and himself, as is important in maintaining a classroom environment in which students can learn. However, he also had a genuine underlying sense of warmth for his students too. We studied world history with him and he imparted a love of knowledge and the importance of learning the lessons of history. He seldom spoke of his personal life but did make some references to his weekends and summers in the national guard, where he was an officer if I recall correctly. His manner was at once controlled and yet relaxed and upbeat. Your reference to his "subtle and modest way" rings very true.

I'm elated to have the opportunity to correspond with you. You seem like the decent, thoughtful, and bright children Mr. Tachna (as we knew him) would have had.

Lyle"

RUTH YOUNG BLOCK, 100

Longtime owner of electrolysis firm

By H. Gregory Meyer

Tribune staff reporter

August 9, 2002

Ruth Young Block was a hard-nosed entrepreneur of unwanted hair. The former owner of a Loop electrolysis business and leader of two cosmetic hair-removal associations turned a life of Depression-era penury into one that allowed a long and comfortable lakefront retirement. Mrs. Block, 100, died Wednesday, Aug. 7, of heart failure in her Chicago apartment, said her physician, Dr. Jack Bulmash. The Polish immigrant opened a hair-removal office on borrowed money in 1937 after several lean economic years, said her granddaughter, Barbara Jaffee. Short of capital to invest in a $250 electrolysis machine, she fashioned one with the help of a vacuum-cleaner repairman, her granddaughter said. "It was this that catapulted me to the very top," Mrs. Block wrote in autobiographical notes about the invention. Further tinkering led to a machine that removed hair painlessly, her granddaughter added. Her office in Suite 1313 of the Marshall Field's annex building at 25 E. Washington St. occupied what later became a hotbed for hair removal, said American Electrology Association president Gerrelyn

Adams. Within a block of her Ruth Young Block Ltd. firm were at least six other electrolysis businesses, an electrolysis equipment supplier and the Kree Institute of Electrolysis. Mrs. Block remained so convinced that Suite 1313 was her company's lucky number that she took its door with her when she moved downstairs, Jaffee said. Her daughter Carol Block Rohr took over the business, now based in Orland Park with eight Illinois locations, a company representative said. She was one of the founding members of the Illinois Electrologists' Association and a president of the American association, Adams said. But as a businesswoman she did not always agree with them. In the 1950s, Adams said, Mrs. Block introduced a light-based hair-removal machine to Illinois that had been banned in California. "They brought this to Illinois and said they were the only ones that had it. Yes, that's true, because it didn't work," Adams said. When the Illinois Electrologists' Association objected to the apparatus, Adams said, Mrs. Block formed a splinter association. "I think they've disbanded," Adams said. In a 1994 interview, Mrs. Block told the Tribune that she followed flapper styles in the 1920s as a way to mark her American identity. She spent her first paycheck, from a job as a stenographer in the Stock Exchange building, on a pair of patent leather shoes. Mrs. Block also is survived by another daughter, Fern Jaffee; two other grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren. No services are scheduled. Copyright (c) 2002, Chicago Tribune teaching, and on other holidays when school was not in session, he drove a Greyhound bus. Something I used to love accompanying him on the many occasions he used to take me with him. The primary school where my father taught for most of his career was at Brookes Middle School in Detroit. My father loved teaching and he was very dedicated to his students, who all loved and treasured him dearly.

My father's parents, my grandparents, were Harry Nathan Tachna and Rose Perlmutter. They were both Polish Jews, born in Eastern Europe, who immigrated to the United States in the early 1920's from Poland.

My grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna was born in the Polish town of Mlawa on Aug 01, 1902 and my grandmother Rose Perlmutter was born in the Polish village of Nasielsk on May 27, 1905.

My grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna's parents were Shimon Alter Tachna and Zysla Kohn.

My great grandfather Shimon Alter Tachna was a great tzaddik, saint, and Jewish religious author. He died in the year 1933 in Mlawa where he was born and lived his whole life. He also used to work as a leather tanner by trade.

My great grandfather Shimon Alter Tachna's parents were Icek Jankief Tachna and Chani Lai Cytryn.

Icek Jankief Tachna was born in Mlawa, Poland in about the year 1833. He died from starvation during the first world war, in Mlawa, on Mar 29, 1917. That he died from starvation was established by his grandson Arnold Tachna in the early 1990's.

Icek Jankief Tachna's wife, and my father's great grandmother Chani Lai Cytryn, was born January 13, 1833 in the small Polish village of Nasielsk, just like my father's mother, and my grandmother, Rose Perlmutter
Chani Lai (nee Cytryn) Tachna's parents were Moshe Hersh Cytryn and Ruchla.

Concerning Icek Jankief Tachna dying from starvation during the first world war, it should be known that there was a lot of disease and hunger in Poland during the first world war. That was due to a lot of the fighting between the Germans and the Russians having taken place there. There was also a cholera epidemic at that time that took the life of my grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna's sister, and my father's aunt, Szajndla Tachna during the first world war in about the year 1916.

My great grandmother Zysla (nee Kohn) Tachna was born on March 27, 1862 in the Polish capital city Warsaw. She was murdered in the Holocaust by the Nazis, probably in the Nazi's Treblinka death camp where many early deportations of Mlawa's Jews were deported to.

Zysla Kohn's parents both came from great and important rabbinical families. Her father Yechiel Michel Cohn was a great rabbi and author on Torah. Her mother was Cypra Ruchla Bharier, whose father Rabbi Jakób Zalman Bharier is considered to this day to be one of the great Jewish rabbis and authorities on Jewish religious law. They both have very important Jewish rabbinical ancestry themselves.

My father's great grandfather Yechiel Michel Cohn was born Mar 15, 1832 in Warsaw. His wife, and my father's great grandmother, Cypra Ruchla Bharier was born in about the year 1830 in Konstancyń, Łódź, Piotrków, Poland that was then part of the Russian Empire. They were married in Konstancyń on Feb 13, 1850. Cypra Ruchla (nee Bharier) Cohn was a daughter of Rabbi Yaakov Zelman Baharier.

The surname Bharier is an acronym for Rabbi Yaakov Zelman Bharier that is, "Son of the rabbi Moshe Yehoshua Ravitzer from Rawicz." In Hebrew it is, "Ben Harav Rabbi Yehoshua."

Rabbi Moshe Yehoshua Ravitzer was the rabbi of Rawicz, Poland and was married to Eidel Horowitz who was the sister of the famous rabbis Rabbi Shmuel Shmelke HaLevi Horowitz of Nikolsburg and Rabbi Pinchas Horowitz of Frankfurt. Rabbi Shmuel Shmelke HaLevi

Horowitz was the founder of the Nikolsburg Chassidic dynasty.

My father's great grandfather Yechiel Michel Cohn was the son of the famous Jewish Torah authority and religious leader Rabbi Eleazar Leyzer Wolf (HaKohan) Cohn. He is known to this day by the acronym, "Maharach" which stands for him being a great Jewish religious leader and religious authority and the son of Rabbi Wolf Michel Cohn Leipziger. The Maharach's wife, and Yechiel Michel Cohn's mother, was the famous Breindel Lorbeerbaum who was the daughter of the famous rabbi and Jewish religious leader Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum of Lissa.

The Maharach, Rabbi Eleazar Leyzer Wolf (HaKohan) Cohn was the eldest child of Sora Rochel nee Cohn and Wolf Michel Cohn Leipziger. He was born in 1791, perhaps in Warsaw, and died in about 1883 Sochaczew, present day Poland that was then part of the Russian Empire. The Maharach was a merchant and a Chassidic Rabbi. He was a disciple of the Chassidic rebbes Simcha Bunem of Pzysucha, Menachem Mendel Morgenstern of Kock (the Kotzker rebbe), and Itzhak Meir Rothernberg Alter of Ger [Gora Kalwaria] (the Chiddushei HaRim). Many of his descendants are Chassidic rabbis.

My father Selden Allen Tachna's great great grandmother Briendel, was the daughter of the famous Jewish Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum from Lissa. Lissa is also known as Lesno. Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum was born in 1760 in the town of Lissa (Prussia) where he was Av Beis Din, or head of the Jewish rabbinical court. He died on May 25, 1832 in Stryi, Lviv Oblast, Ukraine. In his youth, Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum was a pupil of Rabbi Meshullam Egra, and later engaged in business which, upon failing, he became Av Beis Din of Monastyriska where he also founded a yeshiva. He became the Av Beis Din of Kalisz and later of Lissa. In Lissa he taught Rabbi Akiva Eger the Yuunger who lived there from 1770-1791. He later returned to Kalisz where he lived for ten years. Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum most important books on Judaism were Chavat Da'at published in Lvov, Ukraine in 1799; Mekor Chayim published in Zolkiew, Ukraine in 1807; Netivot HaMishpat published in Dyhernfurth, Lvov, and Zolkiew, Ukraine; Torat Gittin published in 1813 in Frankfurt-on-Oder, Germany; Beit Yaakov published in 1823; and Kehillat Yaakov published in Lvov in 1831. Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum also wrote commentaries on Ecclesiastes, Lamentations, and the Song of Songs, a compendium of laws Derech HaChayim in 1828, and a commentary on the Passover Haggadah and rituals. The Passover Haggadah is what Jews read on the first two nights of Passover that recounts the Jews deliverance from slavery in Egypt and their journey to the land G-d promised them, Eretz Yisroel that is today the present State of Israel.

From the Bharier family, and the ancestry of Rabbi Jakób Zalman Bharier, my father Selden Allen Tachna, and myself of course, are direct descendants of the most famous and legendary Jewish rabbis, Rabbi Judah ben Betzalel Loew, the Maharal of Prague. From the family of The Maharach, Rabbi Eleazar Leyzer Wolf (HaKohan) Cohn, my father Selden Allen Tachna is also a direct descendant of another great and famous Jewish rabbi and probably the greatest and certainly one of the most famous Jewish commentators on Jewish religious law and religious belief, Rabbi Shlomo ben Isaac Itzhaki, who is also popularly known by the acronym for his name that is Rashi.

Rabbi Judah ben Betzalel Loew, the Maharal of Prague was born April 10, 1512 in Poznan (Posen), Poland and he died on August 22, 1609 in the city of Prague that is today in the Czech Republic.

The Maharal, Rabbi Judah ben Betzalel Loew was an important Talmudic scholar, Jewish mystic, mathematician, astronomer, and philosopher who, for most of his life, served as a leading rabbi in the cities of Mikulov in Moravia and Prague in Bohemia. He is most famous amongst Jews for what he wrote on Jewish philosophy and Jewish mysticism. He is also the subject of a later legend that he created the Golem of Prague, an animate being fashioned from clay; that he created to save the lives of the Jews of Prague from the murderous, false, and antisemitic blood libels that were widespread at that time.

Rabbi Shlomo ben Isaac Itzhaki, who is also popularly known by the acronym for his name that is Rashi, was born February 22, 1040 in Troyes, Champagne-Ardenne, France and he died July 13, 1105 also in Troyes, Champagne-Ardenne, France. Rashi authored comprehensive commentaries on the Talmud and other works of the Jewish Torah. Born in Troyes, Rashi studied Torah studies in Worms, Germany under German rabbi Yaakov ben

Yakar and French rabbi Isaac ben Eliezer Halevi, both of whom were pupils of the famed scholar Gershom ben Judah. Rashi is acclaimed for his ability to present the basic meaning of the text in a concise and lucid fashion, Rashi's commentaries appeal to both learned scholars and beginning students, and his works remain a centerpiece of contemporary Torah study.

From both the Maharal of Prague and Rashi, my father Selden Allen Tachna's ancestry can be directly traced back some 3,000 years to my father, and thus myself, being a direct descendant of the biblical King David of Israel. Many famous Jewish families are able to trace their ancestry to the biblical King David, as my father's family can. Much of it is traced from the Jewish Luria family, whom my father, and thus myself, are also members of. The Jewish Luria family is recorded in the Guinness book of world records, and also in other sources, as being the oldest family in the world. The Jewish Luria family is unique that it can trace itself back thousands of years, even to the biblical King David of Israel. There as so can my father's, and thus my own, ancestry be accurately traced back to the first Jewish King, the biblical King David of Israel.

My father Selden Allen Tachna is calculated to be the 99th generation great grandson of King David. That makes me the 100th generation great grandson of King David as well. From King David, my father's descent is traced through 2 of his sons, the biblical Jewish King Solomon and King David's other son Shephatiah. It was the biblical Jewish King Solomon, who my father is the 98th generation great grandson of, and thus myself being the 97th generation great grandson of, who built the first Jewish holy Temple in Jerusalem.

Yet all in all, my father Selden Allen Tachna, whose full Hebrew name was Chaim Shimon Alter Ha-Levy, was a very kind, giving, caring, just, and totally honest man. His many good qualities are still widely praised and recounted to this day with great awe and affection. There are still many stories of my father's great kindness, honesty, and acts of justice. All who knew him and remember him even to this day are amazed by his many great and praiseworthy acts of love and kindness. He selflessly gave to others his entire life, and is rewarded with their great admiration and praise that continues today.

My father's yahrtzeit, or Jewish anniversary of his passing away is 18 Tevet 5743 which fell on the day he died January 2, 1983. His yahrtzeit is significant, and a sign of G-d's blessing and reward to him for the great life he lead, for it falls on the 18th day of the Jewish month of Tevet.

In Judaism numbers are listed as letters, and the letters spelled by the number 18, for the 18th day of the Jewish month of Tevet that my father passed away on, are listed as the Hebrew letters of khes and yud. Together the letters khes and yud spell the Hebrew word, "Chai." Chai is the Hebrew word for Life. And for the wonderful life my father lived. he has the reward of eternal Life. That is what we Jews believe. It comes from Judaism and is taught in the Jewish Torah.

So that although my father passed away on January 2, 1983 that is 42 years ago, he still has been blessed with Life, eternal life. And as we Jews believe in the eventual coming of Moshiach (Hebrew for Messiah) when G-d will resurrect the righteous to live in the eternal Olam Habbah (Hebrew for, "The World to Come") that is G-d's greatest reward for all, and it is for "ALL", my father shall be there and I and the rest of us will know and love him directly again! He's actually never died. G-d has blessed him with "chai", Life!

Letter from Lyle Grant (Professor, Psychology Centre, Athabasca Univesity, Athabasca Alberta, Canada T9S 3A3), former student of Selden Allen Tachna:

"August 19, 2001.

Dear Robert,

I was a student of your father at Brooks Junior High School in the mid-1960's. I did a web search for him to see if I could contact him and thank him for being such a fine teacher. In this process I encountered your interesting web site. Your father was an excellent teacher and a very fine man. Thank you for your work in putting together the web site and allowing me to learn more about your family's heritage.

As I mentioned, your father was a superb teacher who excelled at inducing students to discuss issues and to think for themselves. He wanted his students to behave as individual thinkers rather than followers of a trend or a clique. He kept an orderly, no-nonsense classroom and insisted that all the students respect each other and himself, as is important in maintaining a classroom environment in which students can learn. However, he also had a genuine underlying sense of warmth for his students too. We studied world history with him and he imparted a love of knowledge and the importance of learning the lessons of history. He seldom spoke of his personal life but did make some references to his weekends and summers in the national guard, where he was an officer if I recall correctly. His manner was at once controlled and yet relaxed and upbeat. Your reference to his "subtle and modest way" rings very true.

I'm elated to have the opportunity to correspond with you. You seem like the decent, thoughtful, and bright children Mr. Tachna (as we knew him) would have had.

Lyle"

Notes for Nancy Perlmutter:

MY JOURNEY OF EXCELLENCE - Nancy Bauser

I wasn't aware that I was going anywhere until, I decided to look back and see from where I'd come. For nearly 39 years, I have been recovering from a severe brain stem injury that I sustained while I was a student. From being a patient who was on life-support in a neurosurgery intensive care unit in Ann Arbor, to the Rehabilitation Institute in Detroit, I have continued to crawl out from some horrendous circumstances, one step at a time. Immediately after my trauma, I needed to learn how to walk, talk, think, and take care of my most basic needs. If I considered the magnitude of what I had to accomplish, I would have given up. But I didn't think that way. I did not focus on long-term goals. Rather, I chose to concentrate on things that I could accomplish immediately. I built one success upon another. I have continued to very gently push myself toward excellence. After returning to undergraduate school at the University of Michigan, I gradually began to re-learn how to reintegrate into the mainstream by simply doing that. Because I didn't know what Rehab Professionals might have said I couldn't do, I went ahead and did. After my brain injury, I completed college and attended graduate school in social work, at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. My employment history is very short. I worked briefly in two alcohol treatment programs before getting fired and giving-up. I then applied for Social Security Disability. Just because I was now considered 100% disabled by the federal government, I did not quit trying to attain goals. I did what I could do. I could establish relationships and talk with anyone. I found a job that I could perform at a local head injury support group meeting. I could be a brain injured peer counselor & help others to reintegrate into the mainstream, because I had done that. My experiences and education would only enhance my credibility. After having read a book that introduced me to coaching, Therapist as Life Coach, Transforming Your Practice, I realized that was in fact what I had been doing. I chose to further my knowledge of coaching by registering as a student of the International Coaching Academy. Since that time, I have participated in another student's Mind to Succeed program. After that experience, I have been able to identify & achieve goals that I previously did not consider. The lessons taught in the Silva Life System were obviously at the root of this program. I'm very pleased with myself and I see no reason to stop trying to excel. Am I pursuing excellence? I honestly don't think in those terms. I simply do what I have always done since I was hurt. I try to do a little better today, than I did yesterday in all areas of my life. I'm better at some skills than others. I've learned that I must be interdependent with those in my environment and be grateful for all my privileges. When I do that, I feel good about myself. When I feel good about myself, I can contribute to the global community. For more information, please visit: www.survivoracceptance.com.

She died on April 25, 2013 in Bloomfield Hills, Oakland, Michigan, USA.

Notes for Arthur Milton Sills:

From his obituary [Detroit Free Press]:

Arthur M. Sills, whose passion was wheeling and dealing in the real estate business, died of cancer of the pancreas Wenesday [February 7th, 2003] at his home in Bloomfield Hills. He was 77 and was called Archie. He owned First Holding Corporation and FH Management, both in West Bloomfield. Mr. Sills worked until the day he died, and his daughter Susie, who worked with him, will continue the business. When he wasn't actually on the job, he'd drive around in his convertible looking at property. "When we'd go for a ride when we were kids, we'd look for a piece of property," his daughter said. "He worked because he enjoyed it. It was love to him. "After everybody closed and he couldn't possibly look at any other property, he would go to the Jewish Community Center and work out, and he had many friendships there. "Of course, I'm sure when they were running on the track they talked about property." Mr. Sills was born in New York and came to Detroit when he was about 10 years old. He graduated from Central High School and went to Wayne State University for a semester before he was drafted into the Army in 1943 during World War II and sent to Europe. "He drove an ambulance and couldn't stand the sight of blood," his daughter said. "He also didn't have a driver's license." At home after the war, he went to the University of Michigan for two years, then went to work for his family's retail clothing business, Wonderful Tots and Teens, on the east side. "My mother made him go to law school, and he went to the Detroit College of Law," his daughter said. Armed with his degree, he joined the law practice of a man who was heavily involved in real estate work - and the die was cast. Besides his daughter, survivors include his wife of 54 years, Rhoda; another daughter, Claudia; a son Douglas, and four grandchildren. His son Lawrence died in the 1987 Northwest Airlines [flight 255] plane crash near Metro Airport. The funeral will be at 1 p.m. today at the Dorfman Chapel, 30440 Twelve Mile Road, Farmington Hills, with burial in Clover Hill Park Cemetery, Birmingham.

Arthur Milton Sills and Rhoda Nemeth had the following children:

- i. Lawrence David¹⁰ Sills (son of Arthur Milton Sills and Rhoda Nemeth) was born on November 16, 1954 in Detroit, Wayne, Michigan, USA. He died on August 16, 1987 in Romulus, Wayne County, Michigan, USA. He married Molly McLain She was born in USA.

Notes for Lawrence David Sills:

Killed aboard the crash of Northwest Airlines Flight 255 at Detroit's Metro Airport.

- 483. ii. Susan Jody Sills (daughter of Arthur Milton Sills and Rhoda Nemeth) was born on September 01, 1955 in Detroit, Wayne, Michigan, USA. She met (1) Steve Milgrom He was born on June 03, 1955 in Detroit, Wayne, Michigan, USA. She married (2) Michael Levey
- iii. Claudia Sills (daughter of Arthur Milton Sills and Rhoda Nemeth) was born on April 15, 1957 in Detroit, Wayne, Michigan, USA.
- iv. Douglas Howard Sills (son of Arthur Milton Sills and Rhoda Nemeth) was born on July 05, 1960 in Detroit, Wayne, Michigan, USA.

Notes for Douglas Howard Sills:

Born in Detroit, Michigan, he grew up in the suburb of Franklin, where he was friends (and did amateur theatrics and films) with both Sam Raimi and Bruce Campbell. Sills attended Cranbrook School, from which he graduated in 1978, and the University of Michigan where he majored in music. He then continued his education at the American Conservatory Theatre in California.

During the 1990s, Sills built a solid reputation as a stage character actor, especially in the professional theaters of southern California. He also performed in several national tours, including Into The Woods and The Secret Garden (musical), which would also feature future Broadway stars as James Stacy Barbour and Audra McDonald. His first Broadway role, however, came when composer Frank Wildhorn and lyricist Nan Knighton arrived in hopes of finding a male lead for their new musical, The Scarlet Pimpernel (musical). Before this audition, Sills told his agent not to send him out on any more auditions because he was going to law school; he scored in the 99th percentile on the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT) so he could make a stable living. However, being a fan of the movie as a child, Sills decided to give acting one more chance. Luckily, the casting directors cast Sills as Sir Percy Blakeney, the lead role. Douglas Sills opened on his first Broadway show on November 9, 1997. Continuing the role in three other versions of the show. Sills received a Tony Award nomination for his role. He portrayed the foppish hero in SP 1.0 (The Original Broadway Production, starring Terrence Mann, Christine Andreas & Gilles Chiason), SP 2.0 (Revised Broadway Production, starring Rachel York & Rex Smith), and was seen for several months in the National Tour (4.0). Although rumored to play the title role of Wildhorn's Dracula, the musical, Sills opted out (despite doing a recording demo), and rather Tom Hewitt portrayed the gothic character at the premiere at the La Jolla Playhouse in 2001. He has also played Orin Scrivello, as well as several other roles in the 2003 Broadway revival cast of Little Shop of Horrors (musical).

In 2004, Sills joined the Broadway-aimed Chicago production of Monty Python's Spamalot. However, before the production even began, Sills left on his own account due to reported "major script changes." In early 2005, production plans were announced for Wildhorn's new musical "Cyrano de Bergerac," from the same team that helped launch his career with The Scarlet Pimpernel (musical). The role was written specifically for Sills in the title role. However, plans were scrapped suddenly in Spring 2006, and no reason was given for the production's demise. A studio-concept recording was planned to be released, starring Sills, Linda Eder and Rob Evan, but plans also quickly fell through.

In 2009, Sills starred opposite Kristin Chenoweth at the New York City Center's production of Music in the Air, a long-forgotten Kern-Hamerstein project from the 1930s. The concert-style version ran from February 5 until February 8.

Notes for Selden Allen Tachna:

My father Selden Allen Tachna was born April 7, 1937 in Detroit, Michigan. He was a public school teacher in Detroit where he taught social studies. During the long summer break from teaching, and on other holidays when school was not in session, he drove a Greyhound bus. Something I used to love accompanying him on the many occasions he used to take me with him. The primary school where my father taught for most of his career was at Brookes Middle School in Detroit. My father loved teaching and he was very dedicated to his students, who all loved and treasured him dearly.

My father's parents, my grandparents, were Harry Nathan Tachna and Rose Perlmutter. They were both Polish Jews, born in Eastern Europe, who immigrated to the United States in the early 1920's from Poland.

My grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna was born in the Polish town of Mlawa on Aug 01, 1902 and my grandmother Rose Perlmutter was born in the Polish village of Nasielsk on May 27, 1905.

My grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna's parents were Shimon Alter Tachna and Zysla Kohn.

Shimon Alter Tachna was born on Jan 01, 1861 in Mlawa and Zysla Kon was born Mar 27, 1862 in the Polish capital city of Warsaw. My father's grandparents were married October 29, 1880 in the Polish town of Nowy Dwor.

My great grandfather Shimon Alter Tachna was a great tzaddik, saint, and Jewish religious author. He died in the year 1933 in Mlawa where he was born and lived his whole life. He also used to work as a leather tanner by trade.

My great grandfather Shimon Alter Tachna's parents were Icek Jankief Tachna and Chani Lai Cytryn.

Icek Jankief Tachna was born in Mlawa, Poland in about the year 1833. He died from starvation during the first world war, in Mlawa, on Mar 29, 1917. That he died from starvation was established by his grandson Arnold Tachna in the early 1990's.

Icek Jankief Tachna's wife, and my father's great grandmother Chani Lai Cytryn, was born January 13, 1833 in the small Polish village of Nasielsk, just like my father's mother, and my grandmother, Rose Perlmutter

Chani Lai (nee Cytryn) Tachna's parents were Moshe Hersh Cytryn and Ruchla.

Concerning Icek Jankief Tachna dying from starvation during the first world war, it should be known that there was allot of disease and hunger in Poland during the first world war. That was due to allot of the fighting between the Germans and the Russians having taken place there. There was also a cholera epidemic at that time that took the life of my grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna's sister, and my father's aunt, Szajndla Tachna during the first world war in about the year 1916.

My great grandmother Zysla (nee Kohn) Tachna was born on March 27, 1862 in the Polish capital city Warsaw. She was murdered in the Holocaust by the Nazis, probably in the Nazi's Treblinka death camp were many early deportations of Mlawa's Jews were deported to.

Zysla Kohn's parents both came from great and important rabbinical families. Her father Yechiel Michel Cohn was a great rabbi and author on Torah. Her mother was Cypra Ruchla Bharier, whose father Rabbi Jakób Zalman Bharier is considered to this day to be one the great Jewish rabbis and authorities on Jewish religious law. They both have very important Jewish rabbinical ancestry themselves.

My father's great grandfather Yechiel Michel Kohn was born Mar 15, 1832 in Warsaw. His wife, and my father's great grandmother, Cypra Ruchla Bharier was born in about the year 1830 in Konstancynów, Łódź, Piotrków, Poland that was then part of the Russian Empire. They were married in Konstancynów on Feb 13, 1850. Cypra Ruchla (nee Bharier) Cohn was a daughter of Rabbi Yaakov Zelman Baharier.

The surname Bharier is an acronym for Rabbi Yaakov Zelman Bharier that is, "Son of the rabbi Moshe Yehoshua Ravitzer from Rawicz." In Hebrew it is, "Ben Harav Rabbi Yehoshua."

Rabbi Moshe Yehoshua Ravitzer was the rabbi of Rawicz, Poland and was married to Eidel Horowitz who was the sister of the famous rabbis Rabbi Shmuel Shmelke HaLevi Horowitz of Nikolsburg and Rabbi Pinchas Horowitz of Frankfurt. Rabbi Shmuel Shmelke HaLevi Horowitz was the founder of the Nikolsburg Chassidic dynasty.

My father's great grandfather Yechiel Michel Cohn was the son of the famous Jewish Torah authority and religious leader Rabbi Eleazar Leyzer Wolf (HaKohan) Cohn. He is known to this day by the acronym, "Maharach" which stands for him being a great Jewish religious leader and religious authority and the son of Rabbi Wolf Michel Cohn Leipziger. The Maharach's wife, and Yechiel Michel Cohn's mother, was the famous Breindel Lorbeerbaum who was the daughter of the famous rabbi and Jewish religious leader Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum of Lissa.

The Maharach, Rabbi Eleazar Leyzer Wolf (HaKohan) Cohn was the eldest child of Sora Rochel nee Cohn and Wolf Michel Cohn Leipziger. He was born in 1791, perhaps in Warsaw, and died in about 1883 Sochaczew, present day Poland that was then part of the Russian Empire. The Maharach was a merchant and a Chassidic Rabbi. He was a disciple of the Chassidic rebbes Simcha Bunem of Pzysucha, Menachem Mendel Morgenstern of Kock (the Kotzker rebbe), and Itzchak Meir Rothernberg Alter of Ger [Gora Kalwaria] (the Chiddushei HaRim). Many of his descendants are Chassidic rabbis.

My father Selden Allen Tachna's great great grandmother Briendel, was the daughter of the famous Jewish Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum from Lissa. Lissa is also known as Lesno. Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum was born in 1760 in the town of Lissa (Prussia) where he was Av Beis Din, or head of the Jewish rabbinical court. He died on May 25, 1832 in Stryi, Lviv Oblast, Ukraine. In his youth, Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum was a pupil of Rabbi Meshullam Egra, and later engaged in business which, upon failing, he became Av Beis Din of Monastyriska where he also founded a yeshiva. He became the Av Beis Din of Kalisz and later of Lissa. In Lissa he taught Rabbi Akiva Eger the Yuunger who lived there from 1770-1791. He later returned to Kalisz where he lived for ten years. Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum most important books on Judaism were Chavat Da'at published in Lvov, Ukraine in 1799; Mekor Chayim published in Zolkiew, Ukraine in 1807; Netivot HaMishpat published in 1809 in Dyhernfurth, Lvov, and Zolkiew, Ukraine; Torat Gittin published in 1813 in Frankfurt-on-Oder, Germany; Beit Yaakov published in 1823; and Kehillat Yaakov published in Lvov in 1831. Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum also wrote commentaries on Ecclesiastes, Lamentations, and the Song of Songs, a compendium of laws Derech HaChayim in 1828, and a commentary on the Passover Haggadah and rituals. The Passover Haggadah is what Jews read on the first two nights of Passover that recounts the Jews deliverance from slavery in Egypt and their journey to the land G-d promised them, Eretz Yisroel that is today the present State of Israel.

From the Bharier family, and the ancestry of Rabbi Jakób Zalman Bharier, my father Selden Allen Tachna, and myself of course, are direct descendants of the most famous and legendary Jewish rabbis, Rabbi Judah ben Betzalel Loew, the Maharal of Prague. From the family of The Maharach, Rabbi Eleazar Leyzer Wolf (HaKohan) Cohn, my father Selden Allen Tachna is also a direct descendant of another great and famous Jewish rabbi and probably the greatest and certainly one of the most famous Jewish commentators on Jewish religious law and religious belief, Rabbi Shlomo ben Isaac Itzhaki, who is also popularly known by the acronym for his name that is Rashi.

Rabbi Judah ben Betzalel Loew, the Maharal of Prague was born April 10, 1512 in Poznan (Posen), Poland and he died on August 22, 1609 in the city of Prague that is today in the Czech Republic. The Maharal, Rabbi Judah ben Betzalel Loew was an important Talmudic scholar, Jewish mystic, mathematician, astronomer, and philosopher who, for most of his life, served as a leading rabbi in the cities of Mikulov in Moravia and Prague in Bohemia. He is most famous amongst Jews for what he wrote on Jewish philosophy and Jewish mysticism. He is also the subject of a later legend that he created the Golem of Prague, an animate being fashioned from clay; that he created to save the lives of the Jews of Prague from the murderous, false, and antisemitic blood libels that were widespread at that time.

Rabbi Shlomo ben Isaac Itzhaki, who is also popularly known by the acronym for his name that is Rashi, was born February 22, 1040 in Troyes, Champagne-Ardenne, France and he died July 13, 1105 also in Troyes, Champagne-Ardenne, France. Rashi authored comprehensive commentaries on the Talmud and other works of the Jewish Torah. Born in Troyes, Rashi studied Torah studies in Worms, Germany under German rabbi Yaakov ben Yakar and French rabbi Isaac ben Eliezer Halevi, both of whom were pupils of the famed scholar Gershom ben Judah. Rashi is acclaimed for his ability to present the basic meaning of the text in a concise and lucid fashion, Rashi's commentaries appeal to both learned scholars and beginning students, and his works remain a centerpiece of contemporary Torah study.

From both the Maharal of Prague and Rashi, my father Selden Allen Tachna's ancestry can be directly traced back some 3,000 years to my father, and thus myself, being a direct descendant of the biblical King David of Israel. Many famous Jewish families are able to trace their ancestry to the biblical King David, as my father's family can. Much of it is traced from the Jewish Luria family, whom my father, and thus myself, are also members of. The Jewish Luria family is recorded in the Guinness book of world records, and also in other sources, as being the oldest family in the world. The Jewish Luria family is unique that it can trace itself back thousands of years, even to the biblical King David of Israel. There as so can my father's, and thus my own, ancestry be accurately traced back to the first Jewish King, the biblical King David of Israel.

My father Selden Allen Tachna is calculated to be the 99th generation great grandson of King David. That makes me the 100th generation great grandson of King David as well.

From King David, my father's descent is traced through 2 of his sons, the biblical Jewish King Solomon and King David's other son Shephatiah. It was the biblical Jewish King Solomon, who my father is the 98th generation great grandson of, and thus myself being the 97th generation great grandson of, who built the first Jewish holy Temple in Jerusalem.

Yet all in all, my father Selden Allen Tachna, whose full Hebrew name was Chaim Shimon Alter Ha-Levy, was a very kind, giving, caring, just, and totally honest man. His many good qualities are still widely praised and recounted to this day with great awe and affection. There are still many stories of my father's great kindness, honesty, and acts of justice. All who knew him and remember him even to this day are amazed by his many great and praiseworthy acts of love and kindness. He selflessly gave to others his entire life, and is rewarded with their great admiration and praise that continues today.

My father's yahrtzeit, or Jewish anniversary of his passing away is 18 Tevet 5743 which fell on the day he died January 2, 1983. His yahrtzeit is significant, and a sign of G-d's blessing and reward to him for the great life he lead, for it falls on the 18th day of the Jewish month of Tevet.

In Judaism numbers are listed as letters, and the letters spelled by the number 18, for the 18th day of the Jewish month of Tevet that my father passed away on, are listed as the Hebrew letters of khess and yud. Together the letters khess and yud spell the Hebrew word, "Chai." Chai is the Hebrew word for Life. And for the wonderful life my father lived. he has the reward of eternal Life. That is what we Jews believe. It comes from Judaism and is taught in the Jewish Torah.

So that although my father passed away on January 2, 1983 that is 42 years ago, he still has been blessed with Life, eternal life. And as we Jews believe in the eventual coming of Moshiach (Hebrew for Messiah) when G-d will resurrect the righteous to live in the eternal Olam Habbah (Hebrew for, "The World to Come") that is G-d's greatest reward for all, and it is for "ALL", my father shall be there and I and the rest of us will know and love him directly again! He's actually never died. G-d has blessed him with "chai", Life!

Letter from Lyle Grant (Professor, Psychology Centre, Athabasca Univesity, Athabasca Alberta, Canada T9S 3A3), former student of Selden Allen Tachna:

"August 19, 2001.

Dear Robert,

I was a student of your father at Brooks Junior High School in the mid-1960's. I did a web search for him to see if I could contact him and thank him for being such a fine teacher. In this process I encountered your interesting web site. Your father was an excellent teacher and a very fine man. Thank you for your work in putting together the web site and allowing me to learn more about your family's heritage.

As I mentioned, your father was a superb teacher who excelled at inducing students to discuss issues and to think for themselves. He wanted his students to behave as individual thinkers rather than followers of a trend or a clique. He kept an orderly, no-nonsense classroom and insisted that all the students respect each other and himself, as is important in maintaining a classroom environment in which students can learn. However, he also had a genuine underlying sense of warmth for his students too. We studied world history with him and he imparted a love of knowledge and the importance of learning the lessons of history. He seldom spoke of his personal life but did make some references to his weekends and summers in the national guard, where he was an officer if I recall correctly. His manner was at once controlled and yet relaxed and upbeat. Your reference to his "subtle and modest way" rings very true.

I'm elated to have the oppurtunity to correspond with you.I You seem like the decent, thoughtful, and bright children Mr. Tachna (as we knew him) would have had.

Lyle"

Notes for Robert Howard Tachna:

Dear Robert,

I hope this note finds you well! I need to take a moment to thank you for the positive affect you had on my life when we were children. We were classmates in Ms. Parsons 3rd grade class at Green School almost 40 years ago. You were a great artist....often drawing army men battle scenes and a genuinely nice person. I remember asking what you wanted for Christmas. You firmly told me "I'm Jewish....I don't celebrate Christmas....I celebrate Hanukkah." I ask you "What's Hanukkah?" and you explained Hanukkah to me. I remember being fascinated by a holiday other than Christmas.

I went home and told my Mother I learned something new in class. I told her I was excited to learn about Hanukkah. That evening she took me to the old West Bloomfield Library to check books on world holidays and celebrations. I remember pouring through the book and absorbing the information. I was very fascinated and intrigued by the words and bright photos in the book... men, women and children all around the world praying, worshiping, celebrating and sharing their faith with loved ones. I had to write a book report for my Mom and explain what I learned. Your words drove me to learn more and more about world religions and cultures as well as how our differences should bring us together.

Almost 40 years later I'm an HR professional with a degree in Sociology and World Religion. I've used my love of mankind, intolerance of discrimination, exposure to numerous cultures, religious celebrations, faith practices and diverse upbringing to become a well-rounded Human Resources professional. I continue to read books and participate in various diverse events around the city or where ever my travels take me.

I sincerely thank you for changing the way I look at life years ago. I appreciate you more that words can express!

Wishing you continued blessings on this great journey!

Monica

Notes for Paola Lukovsky:

Dear cousin Paola,

I will first tell you about myself so as to introduce myself to you and to let you know about me as your cousin.

I live in the metropolitan area of the city of Detroit, Michigan in the United States. I was born in the suburb of Oak Park on January 1, 1966. My family then moved to the Detroit suburb of West Bloomfield where I grew up for most of my life. And now I live back in the same Detroit suburb of Oak Park that I was born in. Kinda full circle. I have worked in the automotive industry as an automotive designer, mainly for General Motors and also for 2 supplier engineering companies. Everything I did was for the automotive industry. As you might know, Detroit is the home of the automotive industry and where all of the big three companies General Motors, Ford, and Fiat-Chrysler are headquartered. Detroit is also where the automotive industry started back 120 years ago. Detroit has historically been an industrial city with most companies and corporations being related to the automotive industry. People like to call Detroit, "Motown" which means the Motor City. I have also very recently retired. I have two college and university degrees. One is an Associates Degree in Computer Aided Design with an advanced specialty in auto body design. I also have a second Bachelors Degree in Criminal Justice.

My parents are Selden Allen Tachna and Deanna Ruth Jonas. I have 2 older sisters Sue Lynn Tachna and Nancy Ann Kaufman. They are both married and from them I have 2 nieces and 2 nephews. My sister Sue Tachna is married to Steven Alan Fram and my sister Nancy is married to Steve Warren Kaufman. Sue and her husband Steve have 2 sons, Daniel Ari Tachna-Fram and Avi Benjamin Tachna-Fram. Nancy and her husband have 2 daughters Rebecca Elise Kaufman and Madeline Faye Kaufman. I am not married and I don't have any children.

You and I are related to each other from my father Selden Allen Tachna's side of my family, the Tachna family. And it has been my father's side of my family that I have been researching all along.

The origins of the Tachna family as far as I have been able to trace is from Poland. The farthest back that I have been able to trace, the Tachnas were from the city of Ostroleka, That is where the 2 oldest sons of Boruch Baer Tachna were born, Judka Laybe [Blumenfelt] Tachna in 1750 and Mejer Tachna in 1776. That information comes from Polish records. Also, Judka Laybe's wife Sosia Gitla was also born in Ostroleka in 1758.

Here is information on the history of Ostroleka:

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ostro%C5%82%C4%99ka>

But after Jukda Laybe and Mejer Tachna, the family then seemed to all move to the tiny village of Zareby Koscielne. Why cannot be definitively said, but they seemed to move there with the wedding of Lejbke [Blumenfeld] Tachna to his wife Cipa Szaiówna Zarembier in 1822. The family surname "Zarembier" actually means, "someone who was from Zareby Koscielne. I also have Cipa's grandfather's name as being Gerszon Zarembier. That means he was from Zareby Koscielne also.

So the Tachnas were not originally from Zareby Koscielne but all seemed to move there around 1822 or so. So that means both of our mutual Tachna ancestors became from there as the entire family moved there.

Here is information on the Jewish history of Zareby Koscielne:

<https://bloodandfrogs.com/compendium/poland/masovian/zareby-koscielne>

Our oldest common ancestor is Boruch Baer's son Judka Laybe [Blumenfelt] Tachna (born 1750 in Ostroleka, died about 1830 in Zareby Koscielne) and his wife Sosia Gitla (born 1758 in Ostroleka, died September 28, 1828 in Zareby Koscielne). I am then a descendant of their son Jakub Szayka Leib Tachna (born about 1780, died about 1833 in Mlawa) and his wife Dworja (born about 1780, died before 1847 in Mlawa) and you are a descendant of their son Abram Tachna (born 1780, died January 21, 1843 in Zareby Koscielne) and his first wife Szeyna Boruch (born 1801, died June 25, 1827 in Zareby Koscielne).

My ancestors Jakub Szayka Leib Tachna and his wife Dworja moved to the Polish town of Mlawa at least at the time of their daughter Malka's death in 1821. From then on, all of my ancestors, ending with the birth of my grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna in 1902, lived in Mlawa.

Your ancestors started living in the village of Nur with the marriage of Abram Tachna and Szeyna Boruch's son Boruch Tachna to Sora Kur in Nur on October 24, 1846. But with the marriage of their daughter Chaja Bejla Tachna to Wólf Hersz Gersz Monkarz, they started to live in the nearby village of Czyewo. Nur and Czyewo are very close to one another.

Here is a history of Nur:

Here is a Jewish history of Czyzewo:

<https://www.jewishgen.org/yizkor/czyzew/czy0069.html>

This is my Tachna Ancestry:

Robert Howard Tachna - Selden Allen Tachna + Deanna Ruth Jonas - Harry Nathan Tachna + Rose Perlmutter - Shimon Alter Tachna + Zysla Kohn - Icek Jankief Tachna + Chani Lai Cytryn - Judka Tachna + Pesah - Jakub Szayka Leib Tachna + Dworja - Judka Laybe [Blumenfelt] Tachna + Sosia Gitla - Boruch Baer Tachna

From the information you first gave me as you being a descendant of Abram Benjamin Monkarz and his wife Sura Glina (and I know you have some questions about it) from your grandfather Jacobo Monkarz, this is how I have recorded your Tachna family ancestry: Paola Lukovsky - Elena Moncarz + ? Lukovsky - Jacobo Moncarz + Juana Cukier - Abram

Beniamin Monkarz + Sura Glina - Chaja Bejla Tachna + Wólf Hersz Gersz [Makarz] Monkarz
- Boruch Tachna + Sora Kur - Abram Tachna + Szeyna Boruch - Judka Laybe [Blumenfelt]
Tachna + Sosia Gitla - Boruch Baer Tachna

You can see again that our closest common ancestors go way far back in history to Judka Laybe Tachna and his wife Sosia Gitla.

From the oldest Polish records that I have, our eldest generations of ancestors each worked as a sofer, or were "soferim", or Torah scribes. That is what is stated as their professions in the texts of the records. The exact English translation from the original Polish is, "Scribe of the Jewish Prayers." That means they were Jewish scribes who wrote Torah scrolls and other religious documents such as parchments for mezuzahs and tefillin.

This is a good article on what is a sofer, or Torah scribe:

https://www.chabad.org/library/article_cdo/aid/339595/jewish/Sofer-The-Torah-Scribe.htm

From after the oldest Polish records and the oldest known family ancestors, no exact or common professions are named for the following generations of ancestors and family members. Various basic trades are named, such as peddlers and shoe makers that were common at those times. However my ancestor Jakub Szayka Leib Tachna, as stated in the death record of his daughter Malka in Mlawa, seemed to have been a merchant. His daughter Malka's death record states that his home's address in Mlawa was, "on the market square." The market square in Mlawa, as with other cities and towns, was where all of the selling, trading, and buying of goods and properties were done. Typically in a town or village, there was a central square located in the center of the town. People with things to sell would gather in those market squares with their items and merchandise and buyers would come from the town and often sometimes other locations, to buy from the merchants. The merchandise would often be food, clothing, and other regularly needed items. That was how trade was typically done. Jakub Szayka Leib Tachna being a merchant probably sold many types of merchandise that he acquired both on his own and as a distributor for others. That was the role that merchants played. It was also why his home was located on the market square.

After Jakub Szayka Leib Tachna's profession as a merchant, the professions of his descendants, skipping his son Judka Tachna for whom I have no record stating his profession, became more varied and typical. His grandson, and my great great grandfather, Icek Jankief Tachna seems to have started out as more of a basic peddler. Yet later, as I was told by my grandmother and other older relatives who I talked to, Icek Jankief Tachna later established himself in more permanent businesses eventually leading to him establishing himself as a leather tanner. His son, and my great grandfather, Shimon Alter Tachna was a leather tanner. Leather tanners were manufacturers and not traders like peddlers. My grandmother and other older relatives described my great grandfather Shimon Alter Tachna's house as having his leather tannery located in the back yard. There there were vats of chemicals in which the animal hides were processed into leather. The work was done by my great grandfather himself, undoubtedly with the help of his sons. He did not own a large factory or tannery. My great grandfather, like all of the other Jewish leather tanners, did the work himself. His son and my grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna stated his profession on his original emigration document as being a leather tanner. Of course he inherited it as a trade from his father and had my grandfather stayed in Poland, it would have stayed as his permanent work. Only my grandfather leaving Poland for the United States changed his career.

My grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna was the 2nd youngest of the 12 children of his parents Shimon Alter Tachna and Zysla Kohn. Of their 12 children, half of them emigrated from Poland and the rest stayed. Of the 6 who left Poland, 4 of them moved to the United States and the other 2 moved to Mexico. One of the sons who settled in Mexico married his wife there but never had children with the remaining 5 having children and descendants who today live in the United States, Mexico, and Israel. The other 6 children of Shimon Alter Tachna and Zysla Kohn never left Poland. One of them died as an infant soon after being born and another died before being married from the disease Cholera during the first world war. The rest of them were married to their spouses in Poland and they and their families all died in Poland. One of them was murdered by the Poles in a pogrom along with her husband before the Holocaust. I don't know if they had any children or not. The remaining 3 and their families were murdered by the Nazis in the Holocaust. I know of only 1 member of the Tachna family from Mlawa who survived the Holocaust. His name was Marcel Tachny who survived Auschwitz and after the war married his wife and lived in France. His father Juda Nyson Tachna was my great grandfather Shimon Alter Tachna's 1st cousin. Marcel Tachny and his wife never had any children. Of all of the Tachna's who I know were still in Europe at the start of World War Two and the Holocaust, none of them survived; except for Marcel Tachny. Only those Tachna family members who left Europe before the start of World War Two and the Holocaust survived.

The oldest of my grandfather's siblings was his sister Bessie. She married Sam Perlmutter who was from the town of Nasielsk. They had 3 children in Poland, their oldest daughter Rose - who is my grandmother, their son Al, and their daughter Annie. Once they immigrated to the United States, they had their youngest son Jack who was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. As I have just written, my grandmother Rose was Bessie and Sam Perlmutter's daughter as well as the wife of my grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna who was also Bessie's younger brother. Jewish law allows for an uncle to marry his niece and for cousins to marry each other. It comes from the Torah and for all of Jewish history, even up to my grandparents generation in Europe, it was very common. Actually, it was far more common for relatives to marry than for people from non-related families. However, with modern science and the understanding of genetics and genetic diseases and disorders, this Jewish practice of relatives marrying is no longer done or allowed. So my father's parents were also related as uncle to niece, and my grandfather's oldest sister was also his mother in law. It is something that is outrageous today but was common and normal in the past. Some of your family, from your grandfather and his family in Europe, may very well be married as relatives as well like my grandparents. It is very likely. Only someone like your parents or other older relatives might know or also you might be able to discover it from old Polish records. It is something definitely worth investigating.

My grandfather Harry immigrated to the United States in 1923. He already had 2 sisters and 1 brother who had immigrated to the United States before him. They were his oldest sister Bessie Perlmutter who I just wrote about, his sister Lizzie who was married to Henry Silverstein, and his brother Marvin Tachna. Other than them, my grandfather had 2 uncles and 1 aunt that immigrated to the United States also. They were my grandfather's uncle Joseph Tachna, his uncle Salomon Tachna, and his aunt Yetta who was married to Israel Mishne. They all immigrated with their wives and husband who they married in Poland and their children who were born in Poland as well. Joseph Tachna arrived with his wife Ida Noreck and 2 sons and 2 daughters in 1920. Salomon Tachna and his wife Bessie and their 3 sons arrived later in the early 1930's, and I'm not sure exactly when Yetta and her husband Israel and their children arrived in the United States. Joseph Tachna and his family settled in Detroit, Michigan. Salomon Tachna and his family settled in New York City, and Yetta and her family settled in Cleveland, Ohio. They all have descendants living today in the United States. One of Yetta's grandsons, Keith Mishne, lives in Thailand where he is married and has a daughter. He was born and raised in Cleveland and he fought in the United States Army in Vietnam during the Vietnam war in 1968. After he returned back home and got out of the Army, he moved to Thailand where he has lived until this day. He did go to University after he returned from the war and in Thailand he has taught at a University as his career. In more recent years, he married a Thai woman in Thailand and they have a young daughter together. They still live in Thailand. So you also have relatives in Thailand.

My grandparents Harry Nathan Tachna and Rose Perlmutter were married in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania in 1931. They both lived in Pittsburgh with my grandmother Rose's parents Bessie and Sam Perlmutter and their other children Al Perlmutter, Annie, and youngest son Jack Perlmutter who was born in Pittsburgh. Also living in Pittsburgh was my grandfather and Bessie's brother Marvin Tachna. He married Bella Baseman in Pittsburgh and they had 2 children there. Marvin Tachna and his wife Bella have grandchildren and great grandchildren living today all throughout the United States. Soon after my grandparents marriage in 1931, they and my grandmother's parents and siblings moved to Detroit, Michigan. In Detroit, my grandfather had his uncle Joseph Tachna and his family and also his sister Lizzie who was married to Henry Silverstein living in Detroit as well. Joseph Tachna and his wife Ida had 4 children, who were all born in Poland but immigrated with him to the United States, and they permanently lived in Detroit. They were his son Albert Tachna, daughter Nettie who married Eli Freeman, daughter Annie who married Maurice Figoten, and son Maurice. They all have grandchildren and great grandchildren living today in the United States. My grandfather's sister Lizzie married her husband Henry Silverstein in Poland and they immigrated to the United States in the early 1920's. In New York City their son Arthur Milton was born. Soon after his birth, they moved to Detroit. Lizzie and Henry Silverstein had just 1 child, their son who we all always called Archie. He married Rhoda Nemeth in Detroit in 1948. Soon after their marriage, Archie changed his surname from Silverstein to Sills. He did it because of antisemitism. He and his wife Rhoda had 4 children and today have 4 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren. They all live in the Detroit area.

My father has an older sister Rachel. She was born in Detroit in 1935. My father was the youngest child and he was born in 1937. My grandparents did have a daughter born in 1933 but she died the same day she was born. So their daughter Rachel is the oldest surviving child. She has no family. Both she and my father were raised in Detroit and my father passed away in Detroit in 1983 and my aunt Rachel is still living in Detroit today.

My father met my mother Deanna Ruth Jonas when they were in High School together in Detroit. My mother is the 9th child of her parents Louis Jonas and Lenke Ungar's 12 children. My grandparents were Hungarian Jews who immigrated to the United States in the very early 1920's and lived in Detroit. They were also very religious Orthodox Jews and were very prominent in the Detroit and Miami, Florida Orthodox Jewish communities. My parents dated as boyfriend and girlfriend all throughout their remaining years of high school and all through College and married in 1960 in Detroit. I have 2 older sisters and I am the youngest of 3 children. We were all born in Detroit, Michigan. Both of my sisters are married and each have 2 children. We all live in the United States.

Growing up we were very close to my mother's parents and her side of our family. My father was very close to his in-laws too. All of our relatives from my father Selden's side of our family that we knew were only the ones who lived in Detroit. They were my grandmother Rose, her brother Al Perlmutter and his wife Eva Robiner, her sister Annie and her husband George Jerris and their family, Jack Perlmutter and his wife Gloria and their family, and Archie Sills and his wife Rhoda Nemeth and their family. Yet other than my grandmother Rose, my grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna died on January 25, 1960 so me and my sisters never knew him, we never had any contact with them and we never visited them either. There were other Tachna relatives who lived in Detroit. Namely Joseph Tachna's daughter Nettie Freeman and his son Maurice Tachna. Growing up we used to see Nettie allot with her husband Eli and their daughter Harriet who was married to Ernie Pollack and their 2 sons Adam and Jamie. When I was very young, Harriet used to babysit us and also me and her son Adam were very good friends and used to visit each other allot. Yet around the time that I was in 2nd or 3rd grade in Elementary school, Harriet and her husband Ernie got divorced and we never had contact with Harriet and her sons anymore. Nettie Freeman used to visit allot and I remember her husband Eli very well. Elie Freeman died in 1974. It was soon after that their daughter Harriet got divorced and we stopped seeing them. Also, Maurice Tachna and his wife Pauline Gershtenman had a daughter Helene and a son Milford. Helene has never married and Milford, or Mel as he was called, was married to Catherine Kryczynski and they have a daughter Nicole. Helene Tachna for many years when I was very young was a school teacher at the same school where my father was also a teacher. So my father always saw her but rarely did we visit her as a family. We never used to visit her parents Maurice Tachna and Pauline or their son Mel and his family. Outside of the my father's relatives who lived in Detroit, we never visited or had contact with any Tachna relatives other than those in Detroit. So I never knew them or even knew about them. All of our family association was with my mother Deanna's Jonas family, my grandparents Louis and Lenke Jonas and all of my Jonas family aunts and uncles and their families. With them we were always very close and visited and spent time with them allot for all of my years, even to today. Only one day a year did we ever see my father's relatives. That was on Yom Kippur. For all of my life, it has been tradition that every Yom Kippur Archie Sills and his wife Rhoda always held a breaking of the fast at their house and they invited all of our relatives from my grandmother Rose's family, the Perlmutters and the Jeriss's. We would drive straight from the end of Yom Kippur services in Shul to Archie and Rhoda Sills's house. All of the relatives used to be there. We would stay for about 2 to 3 hours and as it was already late, as Yom Kippur ends at sun down, we used to leave soon. So only for about 2 to 3 hours every year did we ever see my father's relatives. Of course I always knew them, but we never had any contact or visits with them. All of my family contact and relationships were with my mother's side of the family. My father too was always very close to his in-laws and all of my mother's family. He also never used to talk or visit his relatives and he too only ever saw them one day a year on Yom Kippur. That is with the exception of my Grandmother of course.

My father died from lung cancer on January 2, 1983. He was first diagnosed with it in 1980 when I was 14 years old. When he died I was 17 and still in high school. As years went by, and as I contemplated my father's memory very heavily, I realized that there was nothing that I knew about his side of my family - and I wanted to know more. As I wrote, I only knew the family in Detroit, and we never had any contact with them. I never knew my father's father, my grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna because he died before I was born. My father never used to really talk about him. So I became wanting to know about my grandfather as well. The person I knew to start asking was my grandmother Rose. And because I knew absolutely nothing about the Tachna family - and only knew of my own family, I had a strong desire to discover who they were and what they were like. I began asking my grandmother about my grandfather Harry and the Tachna family in October of 1988. I was 22 years old. She was very focused on the Perlmutter's, but I kept trying to direct her about the Tachnas. Remember, her mother Bessie was a Tachna, my grandfather's older sister, and also my great grandmother. I only knew the name of my great grandfather that was Shimon Alter and that was because my father was named after him in his Hebrew name. I knew nothing more. There were Tachna relatives living in Detroit as I mentioned. Most known to me was my grandfather's cousin Nettie Freeman who was the daughter of Joseph Tachna who was my great grandfather Shimon Alter Tachna's younger brother. But as I knew nothing about the Tachna family, I never knew that Nettie Freeman was a Tachna. I certainly never heard of her father Joseph Tachna and that he lived in Detroit. I didn't remember thinking of knowing about Helene Tachna because I never saw her but once I recalled her I knew nothing of how she was related or that other than her that there was anyone else who was a Tachna. Helene is Nettie Freeman's neice and as I wrote, her father Maurice Tachna was Nettie's brother and also a son of Joseph Tachna. But I never knew or knew about Maurice Tachna and his family. I always knew Archie Sills and his family as we always visited them on Yom Kippur, but I never knew and had no idea what so ever that he was a Tachna relative and I didn't know at all about his mother Lizzie and that she was my grandfather Harry's sister. About those connections was the first items that my grandmother Rose talked about.

After initially interviewing my grandmother a few times, my mother Deanna told me that the person who I should be talking to who knew all about the Tachna family and my father's ancestry was Nettie Freeman. My grandmother Rose never kept in touch with her Tachna relatives, so she was less forthcoming with information. Nettie Freeman was always close to her family and kept in touch with as many relatives as she knew, which were many. So at my mother's suggestion, I called Nettie - who I hadn't seen in years, and I went to visit her. From her I learned beyond what I thought ever existed. She told me that not only did she know about my great grandfather Shimon Alter Tachna, who was the only ancestor I knew of, but she told me that she knew his parents Icek Jankief Tachna and Chani Lai Cytryn too. I was astounded! She started telling me about them and all of their children, and that their son Joseph was her father, and about so many of their descendants as well! I was amazed. I visited and talked to her that once but she landed me with all of information! I started learning about my grandfather's siblings and their descendants in Pittsburgh and Mexico too. I also started learning about more descendants of Icek Jankief Tachna and Chani Lai Cytryn children too - and that they had a total of 3 of their children that lived in the United States including her father and that she knew and knew about their descendants living today. She also told me that she knew the descendants of their daughter Rojzla Ruchla Tachna who was the wife of Chanoch Nutkevitz and that she knew their daughter Esther who lived in Brooklyn, New York and that her daughter and grandchildren lived in Salt Lake City, Utah. She also told me that Rojzla had a son she knew who lived in Israel and that he had family still living there. She also told me that Rojzla Ruchla Tachna was killed in the Holocaust and about other Tachnas who were killed in the Holocaust as well. I learned about Nettie's two brothers Albert Tachna and Maurice Tachna and her sister Anne who was married to Maurice Figoten and their families and descendants. That is when I learned that Helene Tachna, who I knew about, was the daughter of her brother Maurice Tachna and that she had a brother named Milford Tachna and of his family. And very importantly I learned that Harriet Freeman and her sons Adam and Jamie were Nettie's daughter and grandsons. I never knew that as much as I always knew them when I was young! That's how I knew nothing about the Tachna family.

I kept going back to my grandmother and she started telling me about other Tachna relatives from the past and all about the Tachnas in Mexico, Pittsburgh, and Cleveland. She also told me more about my grandfather's and her mother Bessie's siblings and my great grandparents. Early into my starting to research, my grandmother Rose gave to me her entire collection of old family photographs. She started identifying everyone in the photos and where they lived, immigrated to, and about their families. From those photos I started knowing more and more. She started telling me about my grandfather's 2 uncles Joseph and Salomon and his aunt Yetta who immigrated to the United States and their families. I already started learning allot about Joseph Tachna from his daughter Nettie Freeman but my grandmother added more. She began telling me about Tachna relatives who lived in New York. Their names were Max Tachna, Isidore Tachna, and their sisters. She started mentioning Max Tachna's 3 children Ruth Candace, Edith Muriel, and his son Lionel Judah Tachna. She told me that Lionel Judah Tachna was killed in World War Two while he served in the United States Navy. She also told me that before the war and before he was in the U.S. Navy that he went to collage at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor in the late 1930's and that at that time he used to visit her and the family in Detroit.

After a few months of talking to my grandmother again and again about more and more information, a friend of my mother who learned that I started researching my family history told me about the Mormon's Family History Library and all of the information that I could find from them. The Mormons are a Christian group who as part of their religious beliefs research their family ancestry as far back as possible. They have accumulated information from all over the world. They make the information available at the Church located family history libraries located all throughout the United States. I was lucky that they had one such family history library located near where I lived. So I went there. I knew from my father that the name Tachna was spelled the same way in Europe as it is in English. I also have known that it is very rare. I knew that my grandfather and ancestors lived in the Polish town of Mlawa so that when I went to the Mormon library I looked for information on Jewish records that they had for Mlawa. I found that they have a few microfilms full of copies of old Polish census records for the Jews of Mlawa spanning many years in the 1800's. So I ordered their copies of those microfilms to look at. When they came into the local library I was at, I knew it was going to be easy to just look for any record that had the name Tachna and I knew that would be for my family. Fortunately, I started finding many Polish records for people in Mlawa named Tachna. So I made copies of all of them from the microfilm. I needed a translator to translate the old Polish into English and a local Orthodox rabbi I knew told me that he knew someone who was a Holocaust survivor and that she was very fluent in the old Polish and she could translate the records for me into English. I called her and asked for her help and she was very friendly and willing to help. I took to her the first records I made copies of and she translated them into English for me. The information was incredible! I was learning about the births, marriages, and deaths of so many Tachna family members from Mlawa from so long ago. I was very excited. I had just bought a new computer, and this was still the late 1980's, and I began recording all of the names and information that I was learning on the Tachna family and from what people such as my grandmother was telling me and also from the old Polish records I started trying to connect everyone in how they were related. I also started going back to the Mormon family history library to look at other types of documents such as passenger ship arrival manifests for immigrants to the United States. I found not only them not only for the people I knew about, but for also other that were new to me. The information started to grow and grow.

As I learned about more members of the family both past and still living, I was able to get a number of present relatives contact information. For instance I was able to go to the city of Detroit's main library that kept telephone books from all over the country to look up names that I had found and had been given. I started calling people. I introduced myself to them as their relative in the Tachna family and that I was doing research about us and to ask them questions and also to tell them of my desire to share my information with them. As I had a computer by now and I had bought a program called Family Tree Maker that is made for the purpose of doing family history research, I was able to print from my printer copies of the Tachna family tree. I would make enough copies to send to all of the people who I made contact with and whose addresses I had discovered. I was also sending them copies of records that I was still finding. I kept repeating sending information as I learned and recorded more and more. From them I learned of more and more family members. I was even able to contact Tachna family relatives in Mexico. For all of my efforts in sharing my research, the information that I was learning was starting to expand very fast. Most of all I was very excited to begin knowing so many relatives that I never knew or ever knew about. Everyone enjoyed my efforts. For a few years I was mailing updates to everyone that I knew, which started to become more and more everyday.

The invention of the internet in the mid 1990's was a great thing for me! On the internet I could find more information for more relatives and then eventually more archives and databases began being accessible on the internet. The number of these internet sites were growing all the time. Best of all was the creation of the JRI-Poland database on the internet that started in about 1996. It started listing information for Jewish records in the Polish archives that existed on Mormon family history library microfilm. That is how I found more Tachna Polish census records that I could get copies of from the Mormon library that I was already going to. Very significantly, these were family records from Polish towns other than Mlawa as when I started, the only town I knew about was Mlawa. I found records from other places and also from allot farther back in time. Now my information that I gathered and was recording began to explode! I was still always regularly mailing out all my informatoin to all the relatives as I gained more information and records and as I was still discovering more and more relatives. It became an awsome amount and the workers at the local post office got to know me very well. Now not only did I know of relatives in the United States, I was also discovering more in Mexico and now too relatives in Israel. Most of that was coming form family relatives who were putting me in contact with more relatives that they knew. I was very happy at how my information was growing. It was beyond anything that I started with or that I ever knew before I started my research!

Eventually there was so much information to print and make copies of and there were so many relatives to mail it all too, it became very hard and more expensive to keep mailing it all to everyone. So now that the internet existed, I got the wonderful idea to create my own internet website to display all of my information and records. With that I could keep everyone informed and updated allot easier and with far less cost and effort. We have a relative named Mark Tachna from Pittsburgh who was in college at the time and he was majoring in communications and as part of that he knew how to create a website to put on the internet. It is more than just the design and creating the pages put it is also necessary to know the technology. I was an automotive designer and not an internet expert so I needed Mark's help. I bought a computer program that was easy to use for beginners to design pages for a website and now I had Mark's expertise to be able to upload it onto the internet. Mark was a great help. I bought and found more computer programs to create the family tree in a way to display on the internet. It is the same one that I still use today. It works with the program file that I use to record everything and it is easy and fast to do, thanks to the power of computers. Finally, after designing all the pages with all the information and records and photographs that I had been gathering and collecting, I was able to put the "Tachna Family Web Album" up and running on the internet in 1997. I printed out a notice on paper that I mailed to all of the relatives to tell them that on the internet they could look at the family website and see everything about our family. It was a huge success! Also, soon after email was created and I was able to learn everyone's email addresses to communicate with them all that way much easier. With email I was also able to communicate with everyone at once in the same message. It was phenomenal.

With email more and more relatives started contacting me. These were family and relatives of people I had made contact with who were spreading the word on me and my research. With each of them more and more was being learned and the information kept growing larger and larger. With the notice about the creation of the Tachna family website that I mailed out, people started looking at it and by it I was able to share all of the family information and records that I had accumulated; especially the Polish census records from the Polish archives with their English translations. I created the website so that all scans of all the family records can be downloaded by anyone with just a couple of clicks of their mouses. As I kept obtaining more records, I kept adding them to the website and with people's email addresses I was able to alert everyone about updates. People started responding with great enthusiasm. The entire Tachna family tree is on the website for anyone to view. You can go to look at it on the Tachna family website at anytime. I also began to gather more and more family photographs that I was uploading to. I wanted to make the website a full presentation of all of my research. It is absolutely free for anyone to look at and they can download all of scanned records, documents, and their English translations for free as well.

As years have passed with the website online, relatives who were doing their own internet searches for their own families and research were finding my Tachna website. On it they were able to recognize their family's information and other information that they were looking for and researching themselves. Since it was on the internet, anyone anywhere in the entire world can find it, and people were. As well as more relatives throughout the United States contacting me for the first times, relatives in other countries started seeing the website and contacting me too. A relative in England found me and emailed me, with my email address being on the website, and told me about her being a Tachna family relative. She notified her other Tachna relatives in England and I started communicating with more of them. They all gave me information on their families and with that the family tree started growing and growing ever greater and greater. It was fantastic! The website was so successful not only in being an easy and free way to share all of research with everyone, but it also started enabling other previously unknown relatives to find me and to contact me. The website has been like a magnet attracting Tachna relatives from all over. The family tree information just get getting bigger and bigger and larger and larger. It was such a difference from when I started my research not knowing anything about the Tachna family and not knowing any Tachna relatives, to finding relatives all over the Earth from different countries.

Over the continuing years, my database of relatives, records, and information has expanding so much. Thankfully I have the website to share it all.

Like many other Tachna family relatives, you too found the family website and have contacted me. I am overjoyed to hear from you. Meeting new relatives is so very, very important to me. Now I want to welcome you into the fold.

You asked me to help you with information on your grandfather Jacobo Moncarz's family so that you can get Polish citizenship. I hope that what I have already sent to you has helped? Anything more that I can do please ask, I am more than happy to help ☐☐.

Also, now that we know each other, I hope that I can learn about you and your family in Argentina? It is something that I greatly desire to know. I want to ask if you can tell me about your family so that I can add it to the family tree information? I have already recorded what you told me about your mother's name and your grandmother Juana Cukier, the wife of your grandfather Jacobo. Can you tell me more? Your information is priceless to me. Now I know more relatives from more places in the world. Along with your family in Argentina, we have family in the United States, Israel, Mexico, and England. I am very happy to tell you about all of them. I know that they will be very happy to know about you.

I am sorry it has taken me so long to write this message to you. With the pandemic and other issues, my time has been kind of hectic, but I have greatly desired to write this to you all along. Now thankfully I can send it to you.

Please, please, ask me all questions that you have that you want to know! That is something that I love to do. I look forward to keeping in touch with you and getting to know your family more and more for many years to come.

All of my best wishes, your cousin,
Robert Tachna

Notes for Jonathan P. Skurnik:

Jonathan is a filmmaker, visual artist, educator and activist living in Southern California. At age nine, Jonathan made the first in a series of animated and stop-motion films with his trusty Minolta Super 8 camera. At Dartmouth College, he studied film and art history, then lived in Italy for a year, working as an art guard in Venice and as an English teacher and TV camera person in Verona. Back in Brooklyn, Jonathan worked as an outdoor educator, journalist, literary magazine editor and computer specialist. These skills served him well when he returned to his passion for filmmaking in his late 20s. He began his career by shooting films around the world for award-winning producers. In 1997, Jonathan opened Mint Leaf Productions with filmmaking partner Kathy Leichter in lower Manhattan. With their first film, A Day's Work, A Day's Pay (broadcast on PBS in 2002), Jonathan and Kathy helped to innovate the burgeoning field of Impact Producing, creating the Workfare Media Initiative, which trained current and former welfare recipients to screen the film and facilitate discussions that culminated in actions for change. In 2006, Jonathan moved to Los Angeles and started a new production company, Skurnik Productions, LLC, where he produces award-winning documentaries for broadcast and short films for progressive non-profits. His films have won numerous awards, screened at hundreds of film festivals around the world and showed at prestigious venues such as the Museum of Modern Art and Lincoln Center in New York City. From 2017-19, Jonathan served as the Chair of New Day Films, the only cooperatively-run educational film distribution company in North America. Jonathan is also a documentary film professor, teaching undergrad and masters students at Chapman University and UCLA. Jonathan's broadcast films are in the permanent archival collections of Duke University and his LGBTQ-themed films are will soon be in the permanent archival collections of Dartmouth College. In the City of Angels Jonathan got in touch with his inner Larry David and is currently in development on a feature-length romantic comedy and a half-hour TV dramedy, both bringing his Jewish heritage to the fore. Jonathan also creates art installations and has exhibited his work in galleries in New York City, Martha's Vineyard and Los Angeles. In the service of his artistic vision, Jonathan uses a wide variety of media, including ceramics, painting, sculpture, print-making, video, found objects and new technologies.

Notes for George Samuel Golden:

1) George's mother, Lena, is said to have died when George was about 8 months old, but she appears in the 1920 census. He is said to have been virtually raised by his sister Rachel.

2) As a child, and later in life through the families of his siblings, he was known as Sam, or Sammy. While married to Beatrice, when his son Marvin was a toddler, he worked two jobs, including one as a taxi driver. According to his niece Lenore, Beatrice met someone (probably Mendel "Manny" Feder) and began having an affair while George was out working. Also according to Lenore, George came home from work and found the house empty, Beatrice having left with Marvin. George managed to see Marvin once more, tracing them to the apartment of Beatrice's family, where she lived briefly with Marvin. [See entry on Marvin Murray Golden Feder for more information.] George is said to have adored his son, and was broken-hearted when he could no longer see him.

3) Marvin (nee Golden) Feder, in November 2003, stated that he "knew" his mother had started dating Manny while still married to his father, although it is more likely that as he grew older he simply put together an understanding of certain implications of some of his memories of the time. He had no recollection of life with his father, only of the last time they met. [See his entry.]

4) George stayed in New York for a while, where he met and married Jean Pelinsky. Since George was unable to see his son, the courts having awarded full and sole custody to Beatrice, they decided to move to California to start over.

5) According to a May 3, 2004 phone conversation between Suzanne Feder and Morris Tashner, brother of Beatrice Tachner, the Tachna family lived in an unheated apartment, moved for a while to a nicer apartment (with steam heat), and then moved back to the same unheated apartment. It was while they lived in the nicer apartment that the Golden, including George, lived with the Tachnas. Morris did not recall his own age at the time they lived together, but was old enough to have formed an admittedly biased (his term) opinion of George. He said that George struck him as a cold person who did not treat his wife particularly well. He said that George was a stock market speculator, and lost everything in the crash. He said the financial situation may have contributed to the breakup of the marriage. After that, George drove a taxi for a living, and once found an old typewriter in the back seat which he subsequently sold to Morris for $25. [See entry on Morris for more about this story.] [See entry on Beatrice for more details.]

Notes for Selden Allen Tachna:

My father Selden Allen Tachna was born April 7, 1937 in Detroit, Michigan. He was a public school teacher in Detroit where he taught social studies. During the long summer break from teaching, and on other holidays when school was not in session, he drove a Greyhound bus. Something I used to love accompanying him on the many occasions he used to take me with him. The primary school where my father taught for most of his career was at Brookes Middle School in Detroit. My father loved teaching and he was very dedicated to his students, who all loved and treasured him dearly.

My father's parents, my grandparents, were Harry Nathan Tachna and Rose Perlmutter. They were both Polish Jews, born in Eastern Europe, who immigrated to the United States in the early 1920's from Poland.

My grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna was born in the Polish town of Mlawa on Aug 01, 1902 and my grandmother Rose Perlmutter was born in the Polish village of Nasielsk on May 27, 1905.

My grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna's parents were Shimon Alter Tachna and Zysla Kohn.

Shimon Alter Tachna was born on Jan 01, 1861 in Mlawa and Zysla Kon was born Mar 27, 1862 in the Polish capital city of Warsaw. My father's grandparents were married October 29, 1880 in the Polish town of Nowy Dwor.

My great grandfather Shimon Alter Tachna was a great tzaddik, saint, and Jewish religious author. He died in the year 1933 in Mlawa where he was born and lived his whole life. He also used to work as a leather tanner by trade.

My great grandfather Shimon Alter Tachna's parents were Icek Jankief Tachna and Chani Lai Cytryn.

Icek Jankief Tachna was born in Mlawa, Poland in about the year 1833. He died from starvation during the first world war, in Mlawa, on Mar 29, 1917. That he died from starvation was established by his grandson Arnold Tachna in the early 1990's.

Icek Jankief Tachna's wife, and my father's great grandmother Chani Lai Cytryn, was born January 13, 1833 in the small Polish village of Nasielsk, just like my father's mother, and my grandmother, Rose Perlmutter

Chani Lai (nee Cytryn) Tachna's parents were Moshe Hersh Cytryn and Ruchla.

Concerning Icek Jankief Tachna dying from starvation during the first world war, it should be known that there was allot of disease and hunger in Poland during the first world war. That was due to allot of the fighting between the Germans and the Russians having taken place there. There was also a cholera epidemic at that time that took the life of my grandfather Harry Nathan Tachna's sister, and my father's aunt, Szajndla Tachna during the first world war in about the year 1916.

My great grandmother Zysla (nee Kohn) Tachna was born on March 27, 1862 in the Polish capital city Warsaw. She was murdered in the Holocaust by the Nazis, probably in the Nazi's Treblinka death camp where many early deportations of Mława's Jews were deported to.

Zysla Kohn's parents both came from great and important rabbinical families. Her father Yechiel Michel Cohn was a great rabbi and author on Torah. Her mother was Cypra Ruchla Bharier, whose father Rabbi Jakób Zalman Bharier is considered to this day to be one of the great Jewish rabbis and authorities on Jewish religious law. They both have very important Jewish rabbinical ancestry themselves.

My father's great grandfather Yechiel Michel Cohn was born Mar 15, 1832 in Warsaw. His wife, and my father's great grandmother, Cypra Ruchla Bharier was born in about the year 1830 in Konstancynów, Łódź, Piotrków, Poland that was then part of the Russian Empire. They were married in Konstancynów on Feb 13, 1850. Cypra Ruchla (nee Bharier) Cohn was a daughter of Rabbi Yaakov Zelman Baharier.

The surname Bharier is an acronym for Rabbi Yaakov Zelman Bharier that is, "Son of the rabbi Moshe Yehoshua Ravitzer from Rawicz." In Hebrew it is, "Ben Harav Rabbi Yehoshua."

Rabbi Moshe Yehoshua Ravitzer was the rabbi of Rawicz, Poland and was married to Eidel Horowitz who was the sister of the famous rabbis Rabbi Shmuel Shmelke HaLevi Horowitz of Nikolsburg and Rabbi Pinchas Horowitz of Frankfurt. Rabbi Shmuel Shmelke HaLevi Horowitz was the founder of the Nikolsburg Chassidic dynasty.

My father's great grandfather Yechiel Michel Cohn was the son of the famous Jewish Torah authority and religious leader Rabbi Eleazar Leyzer Wolf (HaKohan) Cohn. He is known to this day by the acronym, "Maharach" which stands for him being a great Jewish religious leader and religious authority and the son of Rabbi Wolf Michel Cohn Leipziger. The Maharach's wife, and Yechiel Michel Cohn's mother, was the famous Breindel Lorbeerbaum who was the daughter of the famous rabbi and Jewish religious leader Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum of Lissa.

The Maharach, Rabbi Eleazar Leyzer Wolf (HaKohan) Cohn was the eldest child of Sora Rochel nee Cohn and Wolf Michel Cohn Leipziger. He was born in 1791, perhaps in Warsaw, and died in about 1883 Sochaczew, present day Poland that was then part of the Russian Empire. The Maharach was a merchant and a Chassidic Rabbi. He was a disciple of the Chassidic rebbes Simcha Bunem of Pzysucha, Menachem Mendel Morgenstern of Kock (the Kotzker rebbe), and Itzhak Meir Rothenberg Alter of Ger [Góra Kalwaria] (the Chiddushei HaRim). Many of his descendants are Chassidic rabbis.

My father Selden Allen Tachna's great great grandmother Briendel, was the daughter of the famous Jewish Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum from Lissa. Lissa is also known as Lesno. Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum was born in 1760 in the town of Lissa (Prussia) where he was Av Beis Din, or head of the Jewish rabbinical court. He died on May 25, 1832 in Stryi, Lviv Oblast, Ukraine. In his youth, Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum was a pupil of Rabbi Meshullam Egra, and later engaged in business which, upon failing, he became Av Beis Din of Monastyriska where he also founded a yeshiva. He became the Av Beis Din of Kalisz and later of Lissa. In Lissa he taught Rabbi Akiva Eger the Yuunger who lived there from 1770-1791. He later returned to Kalisz where he lived for ten years. Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum's most important books on Judaism were Chavat Da'at published in Lvov, Ukraine in 1799; Mevor Chayim published in Zolkiew, Ukraine in 1807; Netivot HaMishpat published in 1809 in Dyhernfurth, Lvov, and Zolkiew, Ukraine; Torat Gittin published in 1813 in Frankfurt-on-Oder, Germany; Beit Yaakov published in 1823; and Kehillat Yaakov published in Lvov in 1831. Rabbi Jakób Lorberbaum also wrote commentaries on Ecclesiastes, Lamentations, and the Song of Songs, a compendium of laws Derech HaChayim in 1828, and a commentary on the Passover Haggadah and rituals. The Passover Haggadah is what Jews read on the first two nights of Passover that recounts the Jews' deliverance from slavery in Egypt and their journey to the land G-d promised them, Eretz Yisroel that is today the present State of Israel.

From the Bharier family, and the ancestry of Rabbi Jakób Zalman Bharier, my father Selden Allen Tachna, and myself of course, are direct descendants of the most famous and legendary Jewish rabbis, Rabbi Judah ben Betzalel Loew, the Maharal of Prague. From the family of The Maharach, Rabbi Eleazar Leyzer Wolf (HaKohan) Cohn, my father Selden Allen Tachna is also a direct descendant of another great and famous Jewish rabbi and probably the greatest and certainly one of the most famous Jewish commentators on Jewish religious law and religious belief, Rabbi Shlomo ben Isaac Itzhaki, who is also popularly known by the acronym for his name that is Rashi.

Rabbi Judah ben Betzalel Loew, the Maharal of Prague was born April 10, 1512 in Poznan (Posen), Poland and he died on August 22, 1609 in the city of Prague that is today in the Czech Republic. The Maharal, Rabbi Judah ben Betzalel Loew was an important Talmudic scholar, Jewish mystic, mathematician, astronomer, and philosopher who, for most of his life, served as a leading rabbi in the cities of Mikulov in Moravia and Prague in Bohemia. He is most famous amongst Jews for what he wrote on Jewish philosophy and Jewish mysticism. He is also the subject of a later legend that he created the Golem of Prague, an animate being fashioned from clay; that he created to save the lives of the Jews of Prague from the murderous, false, and antisemitic blood libels that were widespread at that time.

Rabbi Shlomo ben Isaac Itzhaki, who is also popularly known by the acronym for his name that is Rashi, was born February 22, 1040 in Troyes, Champagne-Ardenne, France and he died July 13, 1105 also in Troyes, Champagne-Ardenne, France. Rashi authored comprehensive commentaries on the Talmud and other works of the Jewish Torah. Born in Troyes, Rashi studied Torah studies in Worms, Germany under German rabbi Yaakov ben Yakar and French rabbi Isaac ben Eliezer Halevi, both of whom were pupils of the famed scholar Gershom ben Judah. Rashi is acclaimed for his ability to present the basic meaning of the text in a concise and lucid fashion, Rashi's commentaries appeal to both learned scholars and beginning students, and his works remain a centerpiece of contemporary Torah study.

From both the Maharal of Prague and Rashi, my father Selden Allen Tachna's ancestry can be directly traced back some 3,000 years to my father, and thus myself, being a direct descendant of the biblical King David of Israel. Many famous Jewish families are able to trace their ancestry to the biblical King David, as my father's family can. Much of it is traced from the Jewish Luria family, whom my father, and thus myself, are also members of. The Jewish Luria family is recorded in the Guinness book of world records, and also in other sources, as being the oldest family in the world. The Jewish Luria family is unique that it can trace itself back thousands of years, even to the biblical King David of Israel. There as so can my father's, and thus my own, ancestry be accurately traced back to the first Jewish King, the biblical King David of Israel.

My father Selden Allen Tachna is calculated to be the 99th generation great grandson of King David. That makes me the 100th generation great grandson of King David as well.

From King David, my father's descent is traced through 2 of his sons, the biblical Jewish King Solomon and King David's other son Shephatiah. It was the biblical Jewish King Solomon, who my father is the 98th generation great grandson of, and thus myself being the 97th generation great grandson of, who built the first Jewish holy Temple in Jerusalem.

Yet all in all, my father Selden Allen Tachna, whose full Hebrew name was Chaim Shimon Alter Ha-Levy, was a very kind, giving, caring, just, and totally honest man. His many good qualities are still widely praised and recounted to this day with great awe and affection. There are still many stories of my father's great kindness, honesty, and acts of justice. All who knew him and remember him even to this day are amazed by his many great and praiseworthy acts of love and kindness. He selflessly gave to others his entire life, and is rewarded with their great admiration and praise that continues today.

My father's yahrtzeit, or Jewish anniversary of his passing away is 18 Tevet 5743 which fell on the day he died January 2, 1983. His yahrtzeit is significant, and a sign of G-d's blessing and reward to him for the great life he lead, for it falls on the 18th day of the Jewish month of Tevet.

In Judaism numbers are listed as letters, and the letters spelled by the number 18, for the 18th day of the Jewish month of Tevet that my father passed away on, are listed as the Hebrew letters of khes and yud. Together the letters khes and yud spell the Hebrew word, "Chai." Chai is the Hebrew word for Life. And for the wonderful life my father lived. he has the reward of eternal Life. That is what we Jews believe. It comes from Judaism and is taught in the Jewish Torah.

So that although my father passed away on January 2, 1983 that is 42 years ago, he still has been blessed with Life, eternal life. And as we Jews believe in the eventual coming of Moshiach (Hebrew for Messiah) when G-d will resurrect the righteous to live in the eternal Olam Habbah (Hebrew for, "The World to Come") that is G-d's greatest reward for all, and it is for "ALL", my father shall be there and I and the rest of us will know and love him directly again! He's actually never died. G-d has blessed him with "chai", Life!

Letter from Lyle Grant (Professor, Psychology Centre, Athabasca Univesity, Athabasca Alberta, Canada T9S 3A3), former student of Selden Allen Tachna:

Dear Robert,

I was a student of your father at Brooks Junior High School in the mid-1960's. I did a web search for him to see if I could contact him and thank him for being such a fine teacher. In this process I encountered your interesting web site. Your father was an excellent teacher and a very fine man. Thank you for your work in putting together the web site and allowing me to learn more about your family's heritage.

As I mentioned, your father was a superb teacher who excelled at inducing students to discuss issues and to think for themselves. He wanted his students to behave as individual thinkers rather than followers of a trend or a clique. He kept an orderly, no-nonsense classroom and insisted that all the students respect each other and himself, as is important in maintaining a classroom environment in which students can learn. However, he also had a genuine underlying sense of warmth for his students too. We studied world history with him and he imparted a love of knowledge and the importance of learning the lessons of history. He seldom spoke of his personal life but did make some references to his weekends and summers in the national guard, where he was an officer if I recall correctly. His manner was at once controlled and yet relaxed and upbeat. Your reference to his "subtle and modest way" rings very true.

I'm elated to have the opportunity to correspond with you. You seem like the decent, thoughtful, and bright children Mr. Tachna (as we knew him) would have had.

Lyle"

- iii. Robert Howard Tachna (son of Selden Allen Tachna and Deanna Ruth Jonas) was born on January 01, 1966 in Oak Park, Oakland, Michigan, USA.

Notes for Robert Howard Tachna:

Dear Robert,

I hope this note finds you well! I need to take a moment to thank you for the positive affect you had on my life when we were children. We were classmates in Ms. Parsons 3rd grade class at Green School almost 40 years ago. You were a great artist.....often drawing army men battle scenes and a genuinely nice person. I remember asking what you wanted for Christmas. You firmly told me "I'm Jewish....I don't celebrate Christmas....I celebrate Hanukkah." I ask you "What's Hanukkah?" and you explained Hanukkah to me. I remember being fascinated by a holiday other than Christmas.

I went home and told my Mother I learned something new in class. I told her I was excited to learn about Hanukkah. That evening she took me to the old West Bloomfield Library to check books on world holidays and celebrations. I remember pouring through the book and absorbing the information. I was very fascinated and intrigued by the words and bright photos in the book... men, women and children all around the world praying, worshiping, celebrating and sharing their faith with loved ones. I had to write a book report for my Mom and explain what I learned. Your words drove me to learn more and more about world religions and cultures as well as how our differences should bring us together.

Almost 40 years later I'm an HR professional with a degree in Sociology and World Religion. I've used my love of mankind, intolerance of discrimination, exposure to numerous cultures, religious celebrations, faith practices and diverse upbringing to become a well-rounded Human Resources professional. I continue to read books and participate in various diverse events around the city or where ever my travels take me.

I sincerely thank you for changing the way I look at life years ago. I appreciate you more that words can express!

Wishing you continued blessings on this great journey!

Monica

Bob Doerschuk,

former editor, Musician magazine

Okay, I'm putting my name on this one.

Why? Because this is one bio where I want to go on the record.

Because I'm talking to you about a new artist who's unlike any I've come across in quite some time.

I'm talking about ELAN, a singer and songwriter who at age nineteen came roaring out of Guadalajara by way of Southern California and straight into my heart.

Maybe, like me, you remember when rock and roll was something close to a spiritual thing. It wasn't about slick and snappy dance steps or machine-bred grooves. And it wasn't about focus groups or demographic targeting.

Those days--if they ever really existed--were probably gone before ELAN was born. But somehow, she was there. That sense, that music can save your life, courses through her debut album, STREET CHILD. It's raw, rough, full of soul and impossible to ignore. Her voice cries, shouts and whispers through songs that feel timeless, bottomless, searing and ecstatic.

From the world-weary resignation of "Goodbye Jeremy" to "They Came From the City," a rhythmic hymn to visions that beckon from just beyond the horizon. This is epic, visual music. Colors seem to flare and deepen as we ride down this sonic highway. This is music about which myths will be spun...except that it's here now. In our time.

Only the rarest kind of artist can do something like this. An artist who somehow can plug into young passions while drawing also from lessons that come through hard times.

The ELAN story is a story of a brother and sister who gave up everything in search for their dream and didn't stop until they got it.

A few names come to mind: Janis Joplin. Bonnie Raitt. To me, the women hold a special place in this pantheon, carved from pain and poetry, and from the ecstasy of empowerment.

ELAN belongs on this list too. But I've said enough...let her words, and her music, make the case...

"I grew up on Janis Joplin, John Lennon, Bob Dylan, Jimi Hendrix, Billie Holiday...I'm very disassociated from my generation. But I'm not disappointed in these kids, because they're not responsible. They've had to grow up on soulless, fake pop stars that are told what to say and when to say it by sons of bitches who don't want to give us anything to believe in..."

ELAN speaks quietly, in a husky hush that's punctuated in equal measure by laughter and blunt, honest ire. She makes no apology for her opinions, which are about as provocative as her singing and the emotionally turbulent songs she writes.

"I didn't know modern pop until I came to the U.S.," she continues. "Up to that point all I knew were the real legends. The singers who said 'even the president of the United States sometimes must have to stand naked.' That's why I have a problem with pretty little boys and girls who think that shaking their asses and doing their happy little dances are all it takes to get onto what was once sacred ground--the cover of Rolling Stone.

She was the younger of two children; her brother Jan Carlo DeFan remains her closest friend and collaborator. He is her producer, manager and the president of their label: Silverlight Records. He also joins her on stage live as her guitarist.

Both parents were musical. ELAN began to play the piano by the age of three, then added guitar and drums to her regimen a few years later. But she was ten or eleven years old when she actually began performing. Her first appearances were at parties in her own home.

Eventually she started singing at similar events around town. But everyone knew that her future was too big to be contained in Guadalajara.

And so, when ELAN was fifteen, her family made its move to the US, where ELAN and Jan Carlo began scouting out the music world. All four were, and still are, tight.

"It was very rough," she remembers. "My whole life was in Mexico. When I left, I felt I was the only person on the planet. But music was all I ever wanted to do. I knew this was the price I had to pay. So, forget it. I did what I had to."

Jan Carlo's street smarts, polished by his experience as an Producer and an A&R executive, helped ELAN edge into the American music world. They drove back and forth between cities, lining up gigs. Already her hard-edged, dramatic sound was taking shape. "Because of all the pop they've been given to listen to, people didn't take it in easily at first," she admits. "But if I could play two or three songs for them, they'd say, 'you're really saying something. I haven't heard anything like this in a long time...'"

The songs on the album were culled from the more than 100 songs ELAN (who plays piano, guitar and drums) wrote. She and brother/producer Jan Carlo cultivated these tracks in studios all over the United States and Mexico. They began sifting through them, recording the ones that felt right. Their approaches complemented each other perfectly: "ELAN just bangs her music out," Jan Carlo says. "You get most of her vocals in one take. I, on the other hand, love tweaking stuff. I think I recorded fifty or sixty different guitar tracks for 'Street Child' alone: I'd wake up in the morning, pissed off at what I'd done the night before, erase it, and do it again."

Jan Carlo recruited some amazing talents for this album. Among them the renowned Mexican composer and arranger Eugenio Toussaint, to write the chart when strings began to feel right for the piano/vocal track "Time." For other songs, Jan Carlo brought in long time friends Juan Carlos Paz y Puente for string arrangements and Grammy Award Winning Engineer Jeff "The Pirate" Poe to assist in the recording and mixing process.

Some high-profile guests signed on along the way as well: David Immergluck of Counting Crows and Alan Weatherhead of Sparklehorse, as well as David Lowery from Cracker. But for ELAN, having Slash solo on the title cut was "Amazing," she says. "Jan Carlo and I always wanted him to do the song... we had thought of him in the song YEARS before we had actually tracked it. He heard about us through a friend of ours, listened to 'Street Child,' and called us up. I was floored. I was always a fan of Guns N'Roses and to me Slash has always been REAL rock & roll. Making music together was... magic."

That, in briefest sketch, is the story of STREET CHILD. But it is, of course, much more than that. It's a monument, if you will, to the determination, and the talent, and the bond shared by a brother and sister, who were willing to leave a world behind and stare down everyone that stood between them and their dream. And it's more even than that: It's an expression of faith in the power of rock and roll-- a power that's been dormant for too long.

"Everything that once made music magic has been slaughtered," ELAN says, "by seedy guys in suits and rich kids with cell phones. I haven't lost hope. All I need is a few kids behind me, saying, 'Hey, you're right! Forget them! We're going to make the music we want to make the way we want to make it, because that is rock & roll.' I want to make life a little less painful. If this record can do that, reaching one person at a time, then I've accomplished my mission."
